Derby Eligibles Get Discouraging Hint

By the Associated Press

Aurin, a native of St. Paul, Que., said before the race: "I hope he runs a big race so it will discourage some of these others from going to the Derby."

Upper Case was not nominated for the Derby, but Riva Ridge, also trained by Laurin and owned by Meadow Stable, is the early favorite to win the first race of the U.S. Triple Crown.

If Upper Case's performance was not enough to discourage other trainers of Wood horses from sending their charges to the Derby, the second and fourth-place finishers, respectively, True Knight and Forage, might be.

They were the only other non-Derby eligibles in the field of 12 three-year-olds.

Upper Case, ridden by Ron Turcotte of Grand Falls, N.B., finished 1½ lengths ahead of True Knight as the 2-to-1 favorite. True Knight, in turn, was four lengths ahead of Derby candidate Head of the River. Forage was another 3½ lengths back.

Upper Case, nominated for both the Preakness and the Belmont, now has four victories, three seconds and a third in eight starts this year.

At Albany, Calif., Bill Shoemaker rode Quack to a convincing two-length victory in the $100,000 California Derby at Golden Gate Fields. Solar Salute and Royal Owl were far behind in the West Coast's final tuneup for the May 6 Derby.

Kentuckian, who could be headed for the Derby, finished second and Pie Host was a surprising third in the field of seven three-year-olds that competed in the 1⅛-mile event.

Solar Salute and Royal Owl, considered the West Coast's top Kentucky Derby candidates, were fourth and fifth respectively.

Quack's time was 1:48 1-5, one second off the record for the event set by Unconscious last year.

At Inglewood, Calif., Typecast, a six-year-old mare, won a three-quarter-length victory in the $55,000 Long Beach Handicap at Hollywood Park.

Balcony's Babe was second and favored Manta was third.

The time for the 1 1-16 miles on the turf course was 1:41 1-5.

COMEBACK HASTENED BY RYUN'S GREAT RUN

It was the 20th time Ryun has run the mile under four minutes outdoors, and the 29th time in all competition. His quarter times were 59.5 seconds, 61.9, 61.9 and 53.8.

Tom Von Ruden of the Pacific Coast Track Club was second in 3:57.9, and Larry Rose, also of the Pacific Coast Club, third in 3:59.6.

Paul's Advance To Coast Final

VANCOUVER (CP) — Paul's Canadians defeated North Shore 4-2 Sunday to enter the final of the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

Paul's will meet the winner of the game between Victoria West-United and New Westminster Blues, to be played next Saturday in Victoria.

Harold Hansen opened the scoring for Paul's at the 30-minute mark o fthe first half. Bobby Smith of North Shore was thrown out of the game five minutes later and the club was forced to play short-handed the rest of the way.

In the second half, Rick Seder tied the game for North Shore at eight minutes, but Ron MacDonald put Paul's in front again at 20 minutes.

Gerela put the game out of reach with his second goal of the game at 36 minutes.

CITY MANAGER BYPASSED?

City manager Bill Hooson isn't being consulted by aldermen as much as he should be, Ald. Percy Frampton said today.

Frampton said new operating policies set by Mayor Peter Pollen, encouraging aldermen to deal directly with department heads as much as possible, tend to make them bypass the city manager and limit his authority.

"If we are going to work on the system of having a city manager we should set the policy and say 'this is what we want done,'" Frampton said.

"But he (Hooson) isn't getting a chance to do that at the moment. In some ways we are going over his head and this tends to take away some of his authority."

Frampton said he believes Hooson's authority should not be curtailed in any way, although "this may be the policy of the mayor."

HEAVIER WORKOAD

He said there is much talk these days about aldermen having to bear a heavier work load, and this could be partly the result of not making sufficient use of the manager.

"Obviously we need a certain amount of communication with department heads but to spend hours with them on things like getting routine information is just a waste of time," Frampton said.

Ald. Clyde Savage said while he consults department heads frequently, he handles major matters through contact with the city manager "which is the way it should be."

NO COMMENT

Pollen declined to comment on Frampton's remarks today. He did say, however, that Hooson like other city officials and aldermen, has more work to handle these days.

"If his desk is anything like mine I can't see how he can be sitting there twiddling his thumbs," Pollen said.

Hooson said today he is experiencing no difficulties under the present system of administration because department heads keep him fully informed.

He said he can't see anything wrong in the involvement of aldermen with the administrative process, because "council is in the final analysis responsible to the citizens for the services provided."

Early Retirement Bid Made

A new bid to get early retirement options enjoyed by other civil servants will be made by B.C. Municipal Officers Association.

At a meeting in Port Alberni at the weekend, some 39 members of the association's Vancouver Island branch endorsed a recommendation to seek amendment of the Superannuation Act to provide for early retirement at age 55 years with 35 years of service.

Saanich clerk Gordon Hayward, member of an association's study committee on the subject, said civil servants in provincial and federal jurisdictions have such an option.

At present there is no allowance made for length of service and a municipal officer has the choice of retiring between the ages of 60 and 65 years.

The request will be placed before the association's annual meeting to be held at the end of May in Victoria, and before the provincial-municipal pension advisory committee, as was done a year ago.

When substantial amendments to the Superannuation Act were made this year, the request was passed over.

ACT CHANGES CONSIDERED

Much of the weekend meeting was concerned with 1972 changes in the Municipal Act, reviewed by Deputy Minister J. D. Baird in a final, pre-retirement appearance before Island municipal officers.

Ozard said the officers desire a further change in the Municipal Act to afford a greater degree of protection to individuals against dismissal.

He said there is a concensus in favor of more explicit rules on the subject, which remains at the discussion level so far.

Meetings of the provincial association next month will be centred at McPherson Playhouse and the Empress Hotel.

Accident Fatal

Seven-year-old Sandreen Pakosz of Campbell River has died in hospital in Victoria as a result of injuries received April 10 when struck by a car while riding her bicycle.

The girl suffered severe head injuries, lacerations and a broken thigh-bone when hit by a car driven by Alex Kennedy of Campbell River. Campbell River RCMP said no charges will be laid.

Along with 1,373 renewal fellowships awarded, the Canada Council awards totalled $10.5 million for the 1972-73 academic year.

Girls Put on Sale Priced at $14 Each

NEW DELHI (AP) — Ignorant backwoods girls from an eastern Indian state are being enticed to neighboring states by promises of job opportunities and then sold for 100 rupees each, police reported Sunday.

Customers who buy the girls — the price is equivalent to about $14 — are individuals as well as brothels.

P. K. Das, handling the investigation for the Orissa state criminal investigation division, said he has had only two complaints, specifying the sale of seven girls, but that there have been many other sales.

Ignorance of the girls' families and fear of the police keep many from reporting the incidents, he added.

He said persons posing as labor contractors visit villages in the poor Adivasi section of Orissa and offer the girls jobs as laborers on industrial jobs in Uttar Pradesh and Punjab Northern states.

The racket is centring on two particular villages where iron ore mines closed down in 1967, causing major unemployment, Das said.

UVic Grad Wins Grant

University of Victoria graduate student Barrow Baldwin has been awarded the $3,500 R. M. Petrie Memorial Fellowship for 1972.

Baldwin, 24, of 1745 Cedar Hill Cross Road, was chosen as outstanding student astronomer at UVic. The $3,500 is for the first year of the award. It may be awarded for a second year for $4,000.

Baldwin is presently completing studies for his master's degree and will study for his doctorate at UVic.

U.S. Surveying Tanker Route Past Victoria

The United States is surveying a deep-draught channel which could be used for supertankers en route to and from Cherry Point, Wash.

The survey is probing for hazards in waters up to a depth of 90 feet — deep enough to accommodate supertankers of about 500,000 tons.

Beginning near Cherry Point, where an oil refinery is being built by Atlantic Richfield Co. primarily to process oil brought by tanker from Alaska's North Slope, the survey extends about 60 miles from the Strait of Juan de Fuca through Rosario Strait.

Based in Seattle, she comes under the U.S. commerce department's national oceanic and atmospheric administration and is commanded by Cmdr. Gerald Saladin of Fort Mitchell, Ky.

Although the channel is being surveyed and the refinery built, the U.S. government has yet to give approval for a controversial pipeline across Alaska which would supply the tankers.

The Canadian federal government and conservationists in both countries have protested the carrying of oil through the narrow straits to Cherry Point, fearing the environmental disaster that could come from a collision or ther marine incidents.

An official said Sunday launches are being used to drag wires through the water to a depth of 90 feet, seeking out wrecks, shoals, rock outcroppings and other navigational hazards.

He said the largest tankers afloat, of 326,000 deadweight tons, have a 79-foot draught but "still larger tankers are reported under consideration." These, he added, would be 492,000 deadweight tons and draw 85 feet.

Two wrecks are reported in the survey area, lying in 168 feet of water. They will be investigated, their positions checked, as well as the depth of water over them.

In Vancouver Saturday a B.C. MP said that Canada has nothing to gain and the most to lose if the United States goes ahead with a proposed pipeline-tanker route to bring oil south from Alaska.

Paul St. Pierre (L—Coast Capilano) told the Canadian Owners and Pilots Association there are strong indications the U.S. will proceed with plans for a pipeline across Alaska to Valdez Island, and a tanker route to the Cherry Point refinery.

"We will get no benefits from the shipments because we are not participating in any sense," St. Pierre said. "Yet in the case of a catastrophic oil spill; ours is the vulnerable coast which can be grievously damaged."

He said normal tidal patterns would ensure that the B.C. coast suffered more than U.S. shores.

Chabot Enters Battle

Labor Minister James Chabot was to meet both sides in British Columbia's construction industry dispute this afternoon in what he called "a last-ditch effort to avert a shutdown."

He said negotiations between building unions and Construction Labor Relations Association, bargaining agent for 840 contractors, broke down on the weekend.

Even as he spoke, the plumbers union went on strike against five contractors in the Vancouver area, in addition to the three struck last week. But no pickets were immediately established at job sites.

CLRA responded at midmorning by serving the legally-required 72-hour lockout notice against 17 unions, following last week's vote in favor of such action by contractors. After Thursday morning, CLRA will be in a legal position to implement a lockout.

The contractors association said lockout notice was posted because of the "escalation of strike action by the plumbers union".

"It appears that there'll be a shutdown by lockout or by strike early this week and I'm attempting to avert that," Chabot said in Victoria this morning before going to the Vancouver meeting with both sides.

"My feeling is that neither side wants a shutdown but it appears to be heading that way."

MEDIATOR?

Asked if he is considering the appointment of a man of the stature of Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz as a special mediator, he said this is "premature" at this stage.

Ed Fay, secretary of the B.C. and Yukon Building and Construction Trades Council, said the weekend talks resulted in no progress and all unions have rejected CLRA's first package offer delivered Friday.

This included an increase of 88 cents an hour over two years, of which 80 cents would be for wages, or about 6.5 per cent per year, he said.

Existing hourly wages range from $4.79 for laborers to $6.80 for electrical workers. Carpenters earn $6.06 an hour and plumbers $6.70.

Fay also said the CLRA offer included relaxation of a number of so-called restrictive or mutual support clauses in contracts.

He said the news media has

FATAL MAULING was the result of this man's attempt to talk to polar bears after jumping into their pen at the South Perth Zoo, Australia. Attendants threw burning rags into the enclosure to distract the bears while they hauled him out, but were too late.

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED: APOLLO AIMS FOR HOME

HOUSTON (CP) — The Apollo 16 spacecraft, heavily laden with a record haul of 245 pounds of lunar rocks and soil, swung around the moon today as three tired but happy astronauts set their sights for earth.

Mission commander John Young, his fellow moon explorer Charles Duke and command spacecraft pilot Ken Mattingly will jettison the battered lunar lander Orion and fire up the main engine of their mother ship Casper at 6:16 p.m. B.C. time to leave lunar orbit and begin the 66-hour, 240,000-mile voyage to earth.

The cruise back to earth in Casper, man's weightiest cargo spaceship to ply the lunar route — will end Thursday with splashdown in the Pacific.

The mission, which began eight days ago at Cape Kennedy, set records for lunar exploration. Young and Duke bagged more rock specimens than any scientist dared hope for, travelled farther (16.9 miles) than any previous expedition, and spent slightly more than 20 hours driving and laboring among the craters, crags and boulders of the Descartes highlands.

All told, the two men were on the moon for a total of 71 hours two minutes compared with the 66 hours 55 minutes of last summer's Apollo 15 mission of David Scott and James Irwin.

Scientists, doctors and mission controllers were ecstatic over the achievements of the Apollo crew.

The three return with perhaps the oldest and most significant samples yet collected on the lunar surface. Locked inside are secrets of how the moon was born more than four billion years ago.

$ MILLIONS IN CUTS

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Price Commission will order hundreds of millions of dollars in price rollbacks and customer refunds in the next few weeks.

He called it "a major break-through, a major landmark" in the U.S. "war on inflation."

If customers who have been overcharged can be found, firms will be ordered to make refunds. No companies were named.

U.K. TRAINMEN DEFY COURT

LONDON (CP) — Militant train drivers stranded thousands of British commuters today by defying a court order, the pleas of their own union leaders and an ultimatum from their boss to resume normal work.

Nightmare conditions prevailed on the southern region, the main service for London's commuter belt, as stations closed and hundreds of trains were delayed or cancelled.

Hanoi Assault Shatters S. Viet Lines

Times News Services

SAIGON — Spearheaded by tanks, a North Vietnam division smashed the northern defences of Kontum City in the central highlands today, driving South Vietnamese forces as far as 15 miles back.

But despite this major advance by the north, hundreds of South Vietnamese paratroops were being pulled out of Kontum province to shore up defences in the Saigon region.

New air and sea battles erupted deep inside North Vietnam, in the Gulf of Tonkin and the Gulf of Siam.

The highlands defence line of Tan Canh and Dak To 25 miles north of Kontum crumbled under the Communist onslaught and a new line was being formed 10 miles north of the provincial capital, said to be the ultimate objective in the 26-day Vietnamese offensive.

PULLBACK

Not since the opening day of the offensive, when thousands of North Vietnamese troops stormed across the demilitarized zone to attack Quang Tri province, have they made such advances.

A radio message was sent out to the scattered and badly battered South Vietnames 22nd Infantry Divsion, which had its forward command post at Tan Canh and a regimental command post at Dak To, to pull back to a new defensive line at Vo Dinh on Highway 14. This is about 15 miles south of Tan Canh and about 10 miles north of Kontum.

The North Vietnamese attack in the highlands developed shortly after midnight Sunday night when the tank column rolled down Highway 14, which connects Pleiku, Kontum, Dak To and Tan Canh.

The South Vietnamese tried to rush reinforcements to Tan Canh from the north and south, but the North Vietnamese blew up three sections of Highway 14 along a seven-mile stretch from Tan Canh southward to Fire Base Vo Binh.

IRA Rebels Hold Catholic Sectors

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen openly manned sandbagged fortifications around Roman Catholic areas of Londonderry today in anticipation of a British Army attempt to oust them from the strongholds.

In continuing violence Northern Ireland gunmen wounded a policeman, a civilian and a soldier in Londonderry, another soldier in Belfast and fought a 30-minute battle with militia forces troops along the Irish Republic border.

The gunmen manned the emplacements with submachine-guns and other weapons. They stopped and questioned all motorists and pedestrians entering the districts. The emplacements bristled with barbed wire and the green, white and orange tricolor of the Irish Republic.

Spokesman for the Irish Republican Army's provisional and official wings said the emplacements were erected on grounds that a full-scale invasion by the British Army to oust the IRA from the areas was imminent.

William Whitelaw, Northern Ireland's new secretary of state, last week ruled out an outright onslaught by the army into the areas on grounds that it would cost the lives of innocent civilians.

No U.S. Family Fully Sane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing U.S. government statistics, a National Institute of Mental Health psychologist said today there is growing evidence that "almost no family" in the United States is entirely free of mental disorders.

Dr. David Rosenthal suggested that the incidence of mental disorders may figure prominently among the causes of the country's social turbulence and disorders, including crime and racial unrest.

Based on a 1967 institute survey, which Rosenthal said contains the latest figures, he concluded possibly 60 million Americans are borderline schizophrenics or exhibit other deviant mental behavior in the schizophrenic category.

"Indeed," Rosenthal said in a report to the National Academy of Sciences, "it may very well be that the so-called 'normal' person, with respect to mental health, does not represent a norm at all, but rather an ideal — relatively rare — that most of us would like to achieve."

Rosenthal said there are more than 1.75 million schizophrenic or potentially schizophrenic persons walking the streets besides at least 500,000 in hospitals in the U.S. Schizophrenia, one of the major mental illnesses, includes a tendency to withdraw from reality and often involves hallucinations and delusions.

In his report, Rosenthal said there's growing evidence that hereditary factors may play a role in causing at least some forms of mental illness.

Rosenthal said "the magnitude and gravity of the mental illness problem ... has ... relevance to the psychological turbulence rampant in an American society that is confused, divided, concerned about its future, and casting about for workable solutions to critical problems."

Rosenthal said other statistics from the survey indicate:

—90,000 Americans were taken to hospital in 1967 for depression and "many times more never found their way to a hospital."

—On suicide: "At least once every minute someone in the United States tried to kill himself, and once every 24 minutes the attempt was successful."

—"There are nine million people in the United States with a serious drinking problem, or about one of every 22 persons, whose annual costs to the nation include $10 million, half of all arrests, and 25,000 highway deaths. ... An estimated 200,000 new cases develop each year."

Finally, said Rosenthal, psychoneurosis — emotional illness short of insanity — is "so prevalent in the population that it is almost impossible to estimate."

MURDER CHARGE LAID

NANAIMO — A 30-year-old man was charged with murder in provincial court today following a Saturday night shooting spree which left a 16-year-old girl dead and three other young persons injured.

Michael McCormick of Kelsey Bay was remanded without plea for preliminary hearing of the non-capital charge.

Sixteen-year-old Brenda Eileen Daniluk of Nanaimo died in hospital Sunday after being shot twice in the head early Saturday in a fracas in a Nanaimo restaurant.

She died 35 hours after a man entered the restaurant and emptied a .22-calibre pistol around the room, injuring four persons including Miss Daniluk.

Wayne Barber, 19, of Stouffville, Ont., and Rick Coulton, 24, of Nanaimo, are in fair condition in Victoria hospital. Barber suffered a head wound and Coulton was struck in the shoulder.

Kathy Sweezy, 20, of Nanaimo was treated for a slight head wound and released from hospital later Saturday.

Nanaimo RCMP said a man had been drinking in the restaurant until about half an hour before the shooting erupted. He left and returned at 2 a.m. with the pistol.

Liberals Still Slipping, Secret Poll Says

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The second private poll taken for the Liberal party this year is even more discouraging for the Grits in forecasting the possible outcome of the election than the first poll, it was learned today from informed party sources.

It indicates a minority government would take office if a June election is held. The Liberals hope that it would be a Liberal minority government but concede that based on the results of the secret poll, received last week, this is by no means a sure thing. It could be a Progressive Conservative minority government.

The Liberals' popularity with the electorate has slipped several more notches and the Progressive Conservatives have climbed, bringing the Tories very close to the leading Liberals, one party source said.

"Only a few points separate the two major political parties in the latest poll, a drop for the Liberals and a climb for the Conservatives," said a government source.

The New Democratic Party has pretty well held its own with the Conservatives making most of their gains from the "undecided" group, picking up some from the Liberals and a few supporters from those who had favored the NDP in the first private Liberal poll. Its result were reported to the Liberal Federation in February.

The "undecided" group in the first poll was around 43 per cent of the Canadian voters polled, similar to that reported by the Gallup Poll, published in newspapers in the latter part of March.

In the latest private poll, turned over to the Liberal Federation the "undecided" group has shrunk considerably. The Liberals learned to their consternation that most of those leaving the "undecided" group went to the Tories.

Results of the latest Liberal poll were made known to Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and key Liberals in charge of the election campaign organization last week.

The exact details of the poll are being kept a closely guarded secret.

"We thought the first private poll taken in January was a disaster. This one is even worse," said one Liberal who has been informed of the results. Asked for more details, he declined.

"The clamp is on. We aren't even supposed to talk about it, let alone give out the results," he said.

GRITS SPREAD QUESTION GAME

Liberal Leader Pat McGeer plans to match the Social Credit government's Ask Your Provincial Government radio program with his own information scheme.

McGeer wants everyone who poses a question to the program to send him a carbon copy, just to make certain all the questions will be answered properly.

In an interview in Vancouver, McGeer said he hopes people will even contribute funds to his Ask Your Opposition fund so that radio spot advertisements can be paid for.

"I am requesting also that people who wish to donate to the Ask Your Opposition radio program send donations to the Legislative Buildings, care of the Ask Your Opposition fund," McGeer said.

He said he would release lists of the unanswered questions, place unanswered questions on the order paper at the next session of the legislature, and attempt in the meantime to give an "Opposition answer" either on a public platform or on radio.

"I will give a complete and public accounting of all monies donated and I invite Opposition leader Dave Barrett to participate."

McGeer said he realizes he is asking the public to pay twice, because the government's Ask Your Provincial Government program is being paid for out of tax money.

But, he said, "in fairness to democracy" it is a reasonable request.

been paying too much attention to hourly pay rates when construction workers "are lucky to draw $8,000 to $9,000 at the end of the year. The reason for the high hourly rate is that the average member only works eight months a year."

Fay said the unions will "see what Mr. Chabot has to say." But the unions had rejected the CLRA offer. "They feel that it's the first offer so there is only one place to go and that's to work your way up," he said.

A number of unions have taken strike votes, and strike notice has been posted at close to 50 contractors by the plumbers and electrical workers union.

CLRA president C. J. Connaghan was not available for comment this morning.

Contracts covering 60,000 workers in 17 unions, representing almost every phase of the organized building industry, expired at the end of March.

Unions have been seeking a variety of wage increases, running as high as $3.55 an hour in one case over two years, plus a reduction in the work week to 35 hours from 37½ hours.

Three North Vietnese tanks and three South Vietnamese armored vehicles were reported destroyed in a tank battle west of Dong Han, 10 miles below the DMZ, and two more were reported destroyed a half mile east of An Loc, the provincial capital under seige for three weeks.

In the air war, the U.S. command said about 10 surface-to-air missiles were fired at B-52 strategic bombers raiding North Vietnam. One of the bombers sustained what the command termed "minor battle damage."

A U.S. helicopter was shot down near Dak To, north of Kontum, and the four airmen were killed. It was the 22nd American helicopter lost since the offensive began, the U.S. command said. Seventeen planes also have been lost, and total air crew casualties are 25 Americans killed, eight wounded and 35 missing, the command said.

The United States sent B-52 bombers to within 80 miles of Hanoi to attack supply depots, railways, highways and marshalling yards at the big coastal city of Thanh Hoa.

A U.S. Phantom fighter-bomber was shot down near Dong Hoi, 45 miles above the demilitarized zone, and the two-man crew was pulled from the Tonkin Gulf by a navy helicopter.

The Saigon command announced that a South Vietnamese destroyer sank a 185-ton boat carrying ammunition off Phu Quoc Island in the Gulf of Thailand. Spokesmen said 16 of the 22 crew members were captured. All were North Vietnamese.

Two U.S. 7th Fleet destroyers were hit by shore fire. One shell caused minor damage to the bow of the Benjamin Stoddert while it was bombarding the North Vietnamese coastline, and shrapnel fell on the deck of the Parsons as it was on a mission between the Cua Viet River and the demilitarized zone. No casualties were reported.

Nine Americans were wounded and three buildings were damaged by a 13-round rocket barrage against the Da Nang air base, the biggest in South Vietnam from which raids are flown against North Vietnam.

Meanwhile, a leading Tokyo newspaper said today that an American helicopter carrier loaded with 2,000 combat soldiers sailed Friday from Okinawa.

The Yomiuri newspaper said in a dispatch from Okinawa that its information about the number of soldiers aboard came from "military sources." It did not identify the sources or the carrier.

In Naha, capital of American-ruled Okinawa, a U.S. Navy spokesman denied the report. He identified the carrier as the Okinawa and said it merely had picked up men for routine manoeuvers.

Another Tokyo paper, the Mainichi Shimbun, quoted soldiers being transported to the ship as telling its reporters they were headed for Vietnam.

Quebec Unions Now Talk Of Holding 24-Hour Strike

Times News Services

Officials of Quebec public service unions which ended an 11-day strike Saturday were meeting today to study a suggestion from one of three top strike leaders that a general 24-hour walkout be launched May 1.

Marcel Pepin, president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, said he would make the recommendation at meetings today in Quebec City. He called for a 24-hour strike involving public and private sectors of the economy.

Pepin spoke to a meeting of about 600 Montreal-area CNTU officials which agreed to arrange votes on the proposal.

The leaders of the common front of public service unions which staged the strike recommended that an emergency back-to-work law be obeyed.

Quebec teachers and civil servants returned to work and about 1.5 million school children were back in classes today for the first time since April 10.

In Toronto, the Ontario department of labor has intervened in the Toronto garbage strike and has called a meeting of all parties today with W. H. Dickie, assistant deputy minister of labor.

"We must first fully review the positions each side is taking now," said Dickie today.

The strike by 4,000 members of Local 43, Canadian Union of Public Employees, is two weeks old and parks in the city and four boroughs are filling up withe mounds of green garbage bags.

Also on strike are street cleaners, parks employees, water and sewage workers and ambulance drivers.

Representatives of 5,000 Toronto Transit Commission employees voted Sunday to demand a 20-per-cent pay increase plus improved working conditions.

Members of Division 113, Amalgamated Transit Workers, also decided during the five-hour meeting to demand medical and dental plans paid 100 per cent by the commission. They also want an improved pension plan.

A two-year contract that gave the transit operators a 19-per-cent wage increase expires June 30. Negotiations plus improved fringe benefits for a new contract begin next month.

The current basic rate for a subway train motorman, street car operator or bus driver is $4.20 an hour.

In Winnipeg, the CUPE president said the public "has little right to feel hard done by by striking public employees".

Stanley Little of Ottawa told delegates to the annual convention of the union's Manitoba division that strikes such as the recent ones in Quebec, Toronto and Vancouver are caused by administrators and managers who "are unwilling to bargain in a meaningful way".

He said the public is responsible for the hiring of these people and "I say to the public that it's damn well time to realize that if you're going to put fools in administrative positions we're damn well going to show them up."

SALUTE SACKED

Students in B.C. public schools will no longer be required to assemble once a week in front of the Canadian flag, salute it and sing the national anthem, according to the new regulations of the department of education.

This may not come as shocking news to many of the province's students. They haven't been doing it in the first place.

But it is a change, and one which can be attributed largely to the efforts of the B.C. Teachers Federation and the B.C. School Trustees Association.

Both bodies, at their 1969 conventions, urged that the regulation regarding the weekly assemblies be reworded to put more emphasis on Canadian nationalism and patriotism. One of their requests was that the assembly preceding Victoria Day be done away with.

It may have taken a little while, but that is what has happened. The new set of education department regulations changes the requirement from weekly assemblies to "at least three times in a school year," to be called at the discretion of the principal and local school board.

One of the assemblies will precede Remembrance Day, but the Victoria Day assembly is not mandatory.

The regulations stipulate that the assemblies "shall promote loyalty to the Queen, respect for Canadian traditions, laws, institutions, and human values, and shall include observation of occasions of historic or current importance to Canada and the Commonwealth, as well as appropriate references to the Canadian flag."

Seafront Farm May Be Part Of Parks Plan

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

A beautiful seafront farm at East Sooke will likely be included in a plan to acquire 1,173 acres of privately-owned property for parks in the capital region. (See also Page 17.)

The plan outlined by regional planner Tony Roberts calls for borrowing $2.2 million for acquiring land to complete seven existing parks in the capital region.

The board has been granted borrowing powers under changes in the Regional Park Act.

The loan would be repaid over a period of years with money raised from the half-mill rate for the acquisition of who inspected the farm on a parklands.

Forty-members of the board parks tour Saturday were so impressed with the farm that they left no doubt they are in favor of purchase.

"I think I would exchange most of our parklands for this property," said Clyde Savage, chairman of the parks committee.

It has beaches, meadows, coves and headlands capable of providing a wide variety of recreational facilities. Part of the property fronts on Becher Bay.

PICTURESQUE BAY at East Sooke could be preserved as public parkland, if a scheme of the Capital Region for acquisition of 1,173 acres for parks comes to reality. The program would require borrowing of $2.2 million to complete seven existing parks in the region. (Photo by Humphry Davy)

Park Act Changes Allow Scheme

Directors thought scenically it is difficult to surpass.

Later Roberts, at a luncheon at Metchosin firehall, explained that changes in the park act gives the district power to borrow money on the basis of the half mill levy.

Next year the levy would amount to about $236,000 and the district could borrow 2.2 million at 8 per cent over 20 years, he said.

It would permit the district to complete its 1968 parks program in "one sweep," he said, and to pay back $198,000 owing to Victoria on Elk-Beaver Lake Park and $82,000 still owing to Puget Sound Lumber for 12 acres in View Royal.

The remainder of the money could be used to buy remaining properties to complete island View Beach and in-holdings at Beaver Lake and to expand existing parks in the highlands and North Saanich.

Board Chairman said he did not agree with all the priorities listed by Roberts.

"But it is a starting," he said. "This will have to be fully discussed before any decisions are made."

Capital Region Greenery Threatened—Director

The rural green landscape of the capital regional district may be as bald as a billiard ball within the next 10 years, according to Howard Elder, a regional director.

He told board directors on a parks tour Saturday the greenbelts along the roads on the Saanich Peninsula, Metchosin and Sooke—taken for granted by citizens—are all likely to disappear.

He explained new mills will be going up on Vancouver Island capable of processing the smaller trees which have been considered useless in the past.

One such mill, fully automated, has been established by Domun's Ltd., at Chemainus.

"It's going to catch on," he said. "Then the pressure will be on to cut small trees on tree farms and private property. It has already started if you look around.

"We have to think carefully what is going to happen and where it is going to happen," he told the directors. "If we don't we may end up with a landscape as stark as the hills of Greece."

He pointed out trees along sections of the Sooke River and De Mamiel Creek, also at Sooke, could disappear overnight as they had now reached suitable size for new mills.

ALREADY STARTED

"We have taken all these things for granted," he added. "But they won't be with us long if we don't start thinking fast."

Elder said he is not opposed to logging the smaller trees as trees grow again.

"But it depends how it's done and where," he said. "If trees are cut down in certain areas they may never grow again because of soil conditions. It may affect streams, marshes necessary for bird life. It will certainly affect the beauty of the area."

Elder said the government's $25 million green belt fund could do nothing to preserve the region's green landscape.

"The money will be used to preserve green arcs within urban or semi-urban areas," he said. "But the logging industry could be made to shoulder some responsibilities to the region."

Salmon Strike Not Imminent

60% Favor Action

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 60 per cent of British Columbia's salmon troller fishermen have voted for immediate strike action to back demands for higher salmon prices, but a union official said a strike will not be held at this time.

Homer Stevens, president of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, said in a statement early Sunday that under the union's constitution, two-thirds of its members must approve a strike vote for a strike to take place.

They invited all commercial salmon trollers, regardless of whether they were union members, to participate in the vote. A total of 60.8 per cent of those voting approved immediate strike action.

The UFAWU and the native Brotherhood of British Columbia joined forces in organizing the strike vote, which took place in meetings throughout the province on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Stevens said that since neither the two unions nor the unorganized trollers reached a two-thirds strike concensus "there will be no vote at this time."

The UFAWU and the native brotherhood, which represents Northern Coastal B.C. Indian fishermen, called the vote in support of price demands worked out earlier this year at a troller's conference.

Representatives of both organizations, acting on the strike vote, have notified all of their locals and branches and asked them to advise salmon trollers of the failure of the strike vote, Stevens said.

The two organizations demand $1 a pound for large red salmon over 10 pounds, 80 cents for medium red and 50 cents for small red. Packing companies offer 65 cents for large, 45 cents for medium and 30 cents for small.

Support for the unions' demands is not complete, however, the vote showed.

Only 82.8 per cent of those trollers voting approved the proposed minimum price agreement.

Mobile X-Ray Hazards Spark Warning to States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warning of possible radiation overexposure, the government disclosed Sunday it has asked states to halt the use of mobile X-ray screening for tuberculosis which now is "almost non-existent in many regions of the country."

"The use of mobile equipment, which requires relatively higher levels of X-ray exposure than fixed equipment, simply cannot be justified," said Dr. Merlin DuVal, assistant secretary of health and scientific affairs in the health department.

Canada should not follow the proposal to halt mobile X-ray screening, says the medical director of the Canadian Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

Dr. C. W. L. Jeanes said in an interview today that radiation doses from mobile machines used in Canada are "well below safe levels."

A Surplus Town?

The projected abandonment of the town of Ocean Falls within the coming year provides a drastic illustration of the demands of economics in large industry. There is little argument in favor of maintaining a losing unit in a multi-unit industrial empire. Unless a deficit situation appears to be short-term, a company should not burden its profitable operations with the annual losses of an uneconomic section. For the same reasons, the provincial government is right in refusing to subsidize an unprofitable operation by a private company which is making profits on its other units.

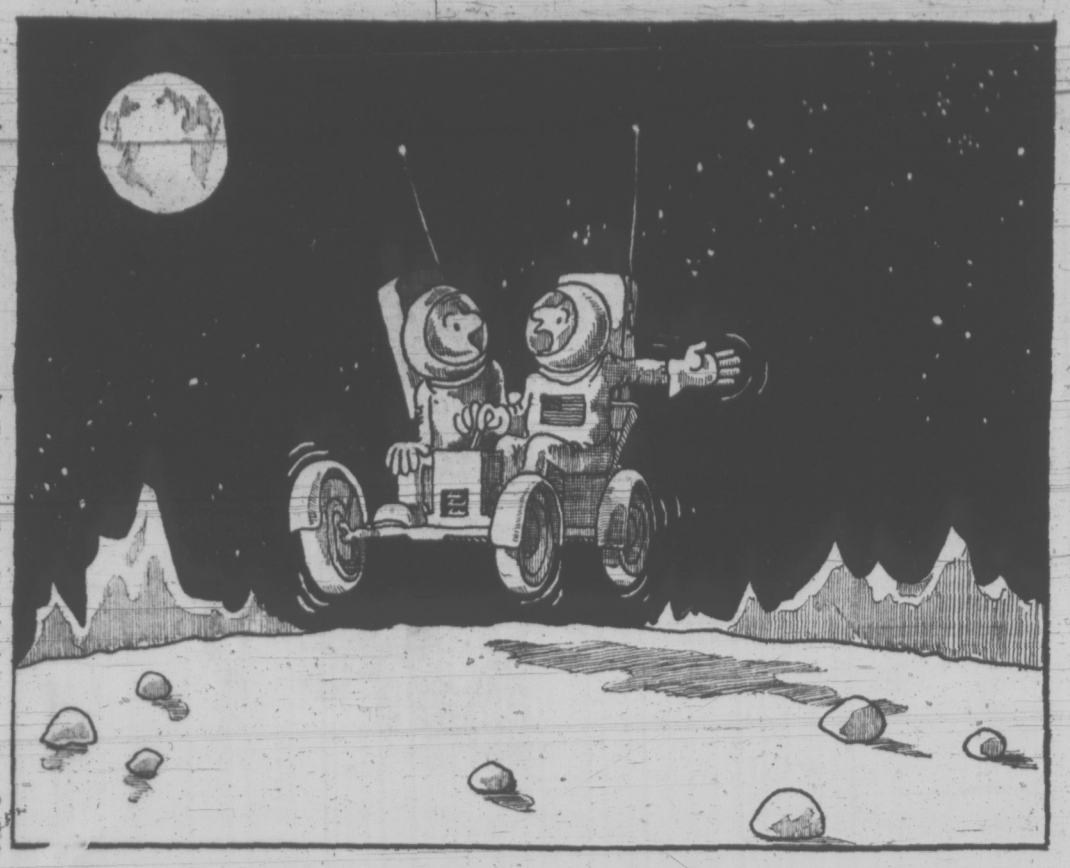
The plight of the individual workers and their families, faced with the disappearance of their livelihood and their homes, is regrettable. But it would not be much better if their lives were to be dependent on the artificial stimulant of a subsidy, whether internal or from outside sources, for economic setbacks or market changes could wipe out their jobs with little warning at any time. They would be in effect living on borrowed time, even though performing daily work, and there could be no assurance of permanence in their situation.

The answer to such problems is not in perpetuation of an unprofitable undertaking which imposes a burden on other parts of the corporation, or on public funds, but in seeking new jobs in economically viable sections of the company or in other pursuits. The contribution of workers can then be positive, rather than negative.

The transition may be difficult, however, and it is in such situations — as in the increasingly common instances of new techniques or automation which phase out old trades — that the displaced workers should receive assistance. This may be in retraining for other employment or in finding jobs in their customary type of work. In the case of Ocean Falls, much of the transition has been going on over the past few years, and the final close-out appears to be planned with the least disruption possible. The larger the corporation involved, the more easily employees should be assimilated in other branches.

The harsh laws of economics affect property as well as people. It seems absurd to the layman, reading of the forthcoming abandonment of Ocean Falls homes, hospital, school and other community facilities, that valuable buildings should have to be destroyed, particularly when they are comparatively new. But here again it is a matter of cost. If the buildings can be removed, in sections or otherwise, to another location more cheaply than they could be built anew, then it will be profitable for someone to undertake the job. A house where nobody wants a house is not an asset, no matter what it cost to build.

Proposals for new uses for the abandoned town, of course, introduce another possibility into the picture. The problem is, the Ocean Falls climate is one to be endured only in the hope of making a living. It is hardly of resort quality, and a curative establishment — whether for drug addicts or others — might find serious drawbacks in the psychological effects of dripping skies and isolation. Certainly the expenses of keeping up such an establishment would call for a substantial contribution by the residents, and this in turn would mean the establishment of productive local industries of some kind to support the population. Which might bring everything back to Square One.



"... but then again ... you never know ..."

School Taxes Edge Down

If there is approval among local taxpayers of the announcement by the Greater Victoria School Board chairman that their school mill rate will fall fractionally, there must also be some puzzlement.

A few weeks ago the community was informed of the crisis created by new provincial legislation curtailing the rising expenditures for educational purposes. Extra money, over an allowed 8 per cent increase, was needed to avert serious reduction in services. A referendum sought an additional $412,000 to avoid impairing the opportunities of the district's school children. The referendum was rejected. The board proceeded with budget pruning to bring its program within its visible revenue.

Now the public is informed that the mill rate for school purposes in the city will be seven-eighths of a mill lower this year than last. Taxpayers will be left wondering, but not complaining, about this fortunate trend.

The explanation appears to be that the provincial government — attacked by the B.C. Teachers' Federation president for its alleged "anti-education" stand — finds it is possible to pick up the tab for 50.41 percent of Victoria's operating costs, in contrast to 49.11 per cent last year. Assessments have increased in certain instances, offsetting the gain made by the taxpayer from a reduced mill rate, but apparently in a way which will not greatly increase the number of dollars he pays to the collector. And the assessment increase also reflects new building, which broadens the tax source.

The fact that the home-owners' grant for schools has been increased reflects merely a redistribution of returns from over-taxation on sales tax — a familiar practice with the present administration. It will, nevertheless, lower the demand on the individual home-owner's savings.

The school board, for its part, deserves a left-handed compliment. Gratitude for a cut in the mill rate is balanced somewhat by the taxpayers' recognition that the board was actually asking for more than it required.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Hooked

So the teachers are hooked. They have joined the unions. They pay up now and toe the line whether they agree or not. Each and every one has lost his individuality and personal initiative. If he dares to disagree or resign then he is black-balled and they see to it that he does not get another job. They are going to hook him for another million. He has to pay so much a month into the pot until it adds up to a million dollars. Is this so the dear children will get a better education? Not on your life. It will be set aside for future strike benefits.

They have joined the army of slaves — the stupid and blind labor force. Do they actually think that individually they will have a say in anything? They are now planning to spend several thousand dollars to bring down the Minister of Education, by going through the province knocking on doors asking for hand-outs from the taxpayers and votes which will raise their taxes. Not much pride or self respect shown here. If this is the measure of their intelligence and their moral fibre then I do not think their standard is high enough to teach our children. — Ella C. Willden, R.R. 1, Cherry Point Rd., Cobble Hill.

Carping

Dave Barrett, NDP, should get off his cotton-picking rocking-horse when he criticizes Social Credit for hiring radio time to publicize its policies. For nearly 20 years the CCF in Saskatchewan put out a public information paper which was financed by all the people and was nothing more than pure unadulterated Socialist propaganda. Therefore any similarity between the NDP trying to get into power and the NDP in power is purely coincidental. We have had it up to here with the NDP underestimating the costs and overestimating the benefits of all their crackpot theories.

There is nothing more tragic than the murder of a beautiful theory by a gang of ugly facts, but the public doesn't get all the facts required in the news media these days. Personally I wouldn't touch the NDP with a 50-foot pole. Their nit-picking, carping and dog-in-the-manger approach which is devoid of any valid solutions gets to be tiresome. The more they yak the longer my pole gets. — F. A. Watson, 816-47th Ave. S.W., Calgary 6, Alta.

Creation

A fundamental error is made by those anti-evolutionists and any others who assume that the terms "evolution" and "creation" are antithetical. Creation might be accomplished by evolution's longer route as well as by the shorter one of sudden action.

Indeed, when we ponder the concept of a living universe, it may be that the inter-connectedness of all things requires the longer route. Life seems to be inherent, not external. This demands that we treat life, man and all things with reverence, and that we reject the prevailing cavalier mistreatment of man and the external world as increasingly disruptive and barbaric.

It is no tribute to the Bible to persist in treating it statically as the literalists continue to do in imposing upon it non-biblical canons of interpretation. Analysis of the two creation stories in Genesis reveals an approach by the writers which eludes altogether this literalism.

Even the older one (Gen. 2:4b-23), which assumes a desert background, implicitly rejects an earlier Babylonian concept (modified by Egyptian influences).

The later story (Gen. 1:1-2:4a) by contrast, starts with a vast ocean. It is dissatisfied with the earlier one, as may be seen by the many differences. It is guided by deeper and more systematic philosophical and religious understanding.

The approach of both writers is the same, however, in being ready to accept better understanding than had previously existed, and using it to give the best explanation they could, and drop inadequate concepts. They believed this to be divine guidance. Scientists are justified today in following this wise biblical principle when they believe the facts point to the evolutionary method of creation. If the writer of Genesis I were alive today, he would most likely be an evolutionist too. — Harold T. Allen.

No Invasion

Thank Heaven for one sane American — James Reston — and his article "Contradictions in Vietnam."

Mr. Chester Ronning, who was our Ambassador in Indo-China and has great experience in the Far East, recently confirmed just what Mr. Reston wrote in his article. I quote: "Hanoi's current offensive in South Vietnam is merely a new phase in a civil war against Saigon dictatorship, not an invasion." He went on: "The U.S. must negotiate with Hanoi for a coalition for all Vietnam. The Saigon Government is so unpopular that it will collapse the moment the U.S. withdraws its support. The Vietnamization program was doomed from the start because its objective was not the end of the war, just the end of American fighting."

CHESTER RONNING
... for a coalition

Mr. Reston says the same thing in other words in his article, and Senator Fulbright — chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee — said precisely the same in Monday's hearings on the escalation of the war in the North. However Mr. Nixon, with almost dictatorial powers, continues to support the corrupt government of President Thieu in the name of democracy, although Mr. Thieu was the only candidate in the recent presidential elections in South Vietnam. What a fantasy of rubbish, and still innocent men, women and children are dying in the bombing and the orders emanate from a President with a Quaker background. — M. P. B. Wrixon, 318 - 1680 Poplar Avenue.

Tax Forms

I do not expect your advertising department to agree, but I think it incredible that Canadians do not arm themselves with the nearest lethal weapon and go hunting the cretin who considered it necessary to tell us that the new income tax law was not applicable on 1971 income.

I have no way of estimating the cost of this lunatic campaign, but surely the implications should infuriate all but the most stunned simpletons. Presumably this is to give that overstuffed, underbrained, computerized collection of morons that calls itself "Information Canada-a-a-a" something to do.

I have looked at my income tax form. It tells me how to fill it out, calculate the tax and (never fear) pay it. Who cares about a couple of blithering idiots riding in a buggy. Anyhow it will take a lot more than "Information Canada-a-a-a-a" to explain the NEW tax system. — H. E. F. Makovsi, 3539 Plymouth Rd.

Forest Wreckage

Thank you for Art Stott's article "Running Out of Trees?". It makes me sad to think how the forest land of this province has been mismanaged for the past 100 years. True, things are improving, but ever so slowly.

Why must we have to travel to Cathedral Grove—I prefer the old name—to see the original forest? Why did not this government leave a strip of forest along the Taylor and Kennedy River portion of the Tofino Road? Why does it allow complete removal of trees along the edges of rivers and lakes, yet its officials pay lip service to the idea of someday retaining them? I understand a forest company on Vancouver Island was prepared to go along with requests from a fish and game club to leave a verge of trees; but the government required it to pay stumpage on the uncut trees, so they were all removed.

Why is the government so slow to act with federal authorities to preserve fish streams and spawning areas? I recently visited the White River near Sayward, personally confirming the very serious leaching of top soil which is eroding the land and injuring salmon fry in this prime spawning river. Trees were left along the river only where they were too difficult to remove.

Last summer I drove beyond the campsite on Nitinat Lake near Caycuse River. A short distance beyond the camp I tried to follow a tributary down to the river. It was so choked with forest debris from the logging operation that it was impossible to do so. The interesting point is that it was cleared of debris by a bulldozer only as far as the eye could see from the road. This area is Crown land operated under timber licence by the largest forest company in Canada.

There are many mountainsides being denuded which should never be disturbed. Rocky slopes will be very slow to regenerate trees, if ever.

We hear about cutting Douglas fir on a 70 or 80-year cycle but nothing about the time it will take to regenerate yellow cedar on the mountain slopes. This is the most costly conifer in B.C. It would surprise me if it is even being replanted. In the alpine highlands of Vancouver Island it is a crime to cut them. Regeneration to mature size will take hundreds of years.

When I see the bald, logged mountaintops on Vancouver Island, consider the thin soil cover and the heavy erosion, I am reminded of the wastelands in other parts of the world which were once forested and denuded by man. I am fully convinced that the last 1,000 feet or so below the tree line on the mountains of Vancouver Island should be left undisturbed. It may well apply elsewhere in B.C. —W. H. Warren, No. 6, 1041 St. Charles St.

Swap Prisoners for Peace?

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Experience with Hanoi's spring offensive of 1972 suggests several useful conclusions. One of them is that the opportunity for peace-making may dramatically improve once the offensive has run its course.

The bogey of North Vietnam's "main force" army has been cut to size. For years, knowledgeable South Vietnamese (and Americans) awaited anxiously the day when that regular army would be committed to battle on a massive scale. Now it has been committed, and the act has not proven decisive. Hanoi's army is a potent force, but it is not overwhelming.

What is decisive is tactical American air power. Without its close support the ARVN (South Vietnamese Army) almost certainly would have been overwhelmed.

Strategic air (the bombing of supply lines) may or may not have been essential to containing the North Vietnamese, but there can be no doubt that tactical strikes were.

Bargaining Power

So the bargaining power of Americans at Paris, when peace talks resume, will be enhanced. The United States has something Hanoi now knows it has got to have — namely relief from American domination of the air.

That relief has not been obtained via Soviet surface-to-air (SAM) missiles. Of the roughly 200 SAMs fired at planes attacking Hanoi and Haiphong last weekend, only one hit its target. American technology has gone far toward neutralizing Soviet surface-to-air defence.

The only way Hanoi can win relief in the skies is by negotiating the American Air Force out of Vietnam. Moreover, to take full advantage of that relief, Hanoi must clear out the Americans before South Vietnamese airmen are able to take their place.

That day will come. Already Saigon has some 1000 aircraft. Intensive training is under way to staff a substantially larger force.

So if Hanoi wants to fight without the disadvantage of a perilous sky, it will have to neutralize American air power some time this year or early next. By late 1973 or early 1974, it almost certainly will be too late for the American departure to be significant.

It will be logical, therefore, if North Vietnam offers substantially more than the resumption of private contacts with Le Duc Tho in return for relief from American air strikes. (Le, a ranking member of the North Vietnamese Politburo, participated in talks with presidential adviser Henry Kissinger last spring and summer. This past week Hanoi offered to bring him back to Paris if the bombing stops.)

A perilous sky

Neutralization of American air power would be worth virtually everything Hanoi has to give at the bargaining table — that is, of course, if the war is to go on. Were there to be a cease-fire, relief from the bombing would be redundant.

The principal commodity Hanoi has to offer is release of American prisoners. It would be entirely logical for the North to offer these men freedom in exchange for withdrawal of all American ground and air personnel.

Hanoi has hinted at such a transaction to legislators and private citizens, but in contacts with the American government has not been prepared to agree. There have always been other elements in the package: a coalition government in Saigon, for example, and stoppage of American weapons and economic aid to Saigon.

Military Aspects

The United States, too, has groped toward a prisoners-for-withdrawal swap. It has said "military" aspects of a settlement could be negotiated separately from political. But publicly, at least, Washington has insisted that a cease-fire be part of the deal.

To make such an agreement without a cease-fire would be to leave the South Vietnamese to fight a continuing war as best they could without the help of American personnel. It would end the war for Americans but not for Vietnamese.

This would undoubtedly be criticized by some of America's allies as a "cop-out"; but if the results were not to some extent disadvantageous to Saigon, there would be little motive for Hanoi to buy the proposition.

And this is no longer the dishonorable abandonment of an ally that it once would have been. It would, indeed, be welcomed by much of the world as easing a source of Chinese-American and Soviet-American tension.

If Hanoi will agree, the United States should feel free to do so. Now that American air power has been proven to be a factor of major importance, it is at least conceivable Hanoi will go along.

Haunted by the Ghost of Mylai

By RAYMOND A. SCHROTH
Commonweal

Mylai is back. America — particularly the Army — apparently had wanted to forget it, just as historians had wanted to forget the Indian wars and the whole pattern of violence in American history until the riots and assassinations of 1968 (the same year as Mylai) forced us into moments of self-questioning and guilt. But Seymour Hersh, who won the Pulitzer Prize for exposing the extent of Lieutenant William L. Calley's crime, seems determined to make Mylai the case that will not die.

In his new book, Cover-Up (Random House, $6.95), originally published in The New Yorker (Jan. 22, 29, 1972), based on the secret 20,000-page documentary record of the Peers Inquiry, the Army's official investigative board, and his own interviews, Hersh has summoned up the specters of four hundred slaughtered civilian Vietnamese. He has transformed them into Shakespearean ghosts who will haunt the national conscience until we come to terms with this gory moment in our history. For, according to Hersh, the crime of Mylai was actually much worse than we were led to believe.

Turns His Face

Sometimes the public reaction to a war crime is like the public reaction to a violent suicide: a man in a crowd cranes his neck in anticipation as another man teeters on a fourteenth-storey ledge, but he turns his face as the body plummets down — slinking away as if he had never been there.

Hersh's book makes clear that there are those who would pretend that America had never been to Mylai. Four years later, almost all of those involved have been let off the hook and the Peers report is still under wraps.

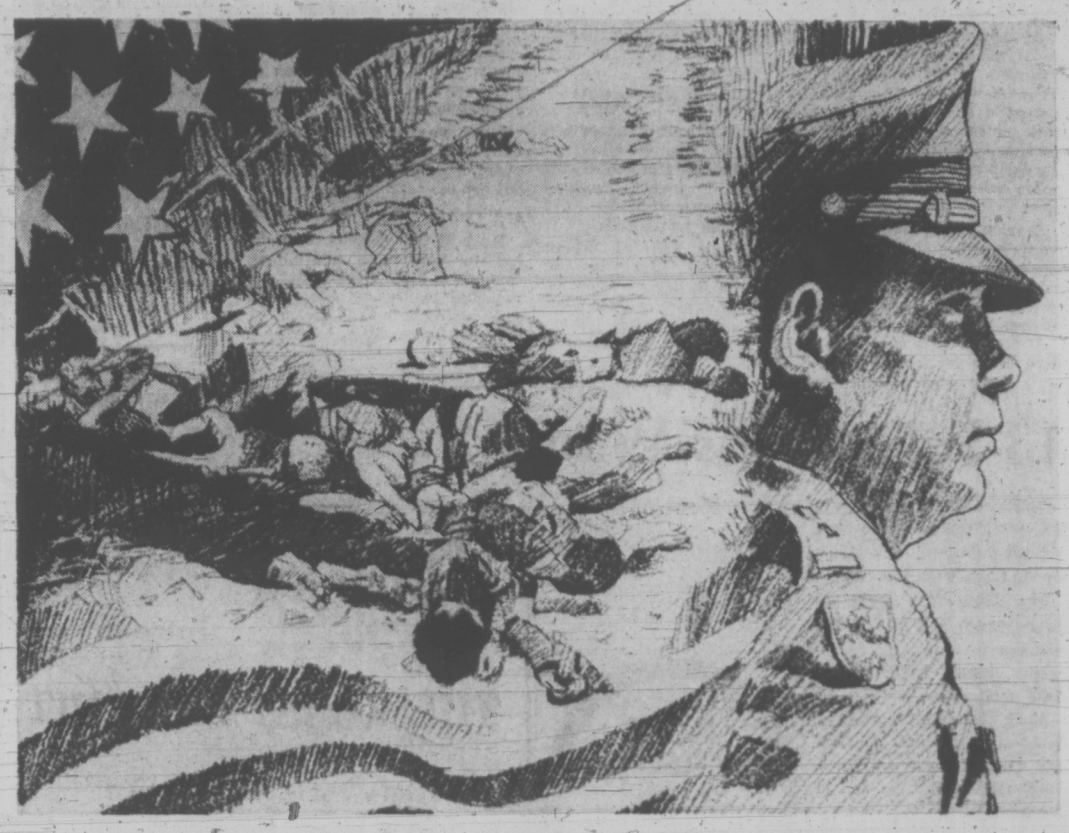
Some things are best forgotten. Are we to be held responsible in this life for everything? Are we to send soldiers into morally ambiguous or impossible situations and then put them at the mercy of journalistic Javerts who will hound them like wrathful gods?

Protect Careers

Yet, the Hersh account is above mere vengeance journalism. It is first of all another of the now numerous documents, beginning with In the Name of America (Clergy and Laymen Concerned, 1968), indicting America for war crimes in Vietnam.

Second, it is the personal story of how the highest ranking officers brought on these crimes by their policies or their negligence, then covered them up to protect their own careers.

Third, it is a tribute to the human spirit. We were not and are not all guilty. Integrity is possible under pressure. A handful of officers and enlisted men were not reduced to cold-blooded killers, helpless automatons or spineless connivers by the practices of the war. They did not adopt the prevalent "everybody-does-it" attitude toward murder, but carried the sorrowful story of the atrocities up through the chain of command — to many deaf ears — to the public and to the President himself.



—Drawing by David Glover

Under the command of Captain Ernest L. Medina with platoon leader Calley, the men of Charlie Company, Task Force Barker, 11th Brigade, Americal Division, assaulted the hamlet called Mylai 4 in the Province of Quang Ngai. Expecting to find a tough Vietcong battalion, they found women, children and old men cooking breakfast. They killed 347 of them, raping the younger women; they burned the homes, killed the livestock, fouled the water and reported it as a victory over Communism.

Meanwhile, a few miles to the south, as the world did not know until recently, the men of Bravo Company, hard-hit and demoralized by booby-traps, strode into the scraggly hamlet of Mykhe 4 and wiped out between 60 and 150 civilians in the same way. Then they spent the next day marching south along the Tra Khuc River burning and blowing up every hamlet along the way.

Hersh concludes that the Mylai event was, in scale, an isolated incident, but that the Mykhe 4 wasting was simply a part of a pattern of relatively small-scale atrocities that have characterized a war where a unit's success and an ambitious officer's rating are determined by the body-count, with no questions asked as to whether the body was a VC or an old woman.

For example, to achieve high counts, the 11th Brigade, commanded by Colonel Oran K. Henderson, promised three-day passes to helicopter pilots who brought in military-age males for questioning. The men called the project Operation Body Snatch and amused themselves by running down civilians with their helicopter skids and lassoeing them and dragging them behind till they broke their necks.

As Episcopal Chaplain Carl E. Creswell told the Peers Inquiry, "I became absolutely convinced that as far as the United States Army was concerned there was no such thing as murder of a Vietnamese civilian. I'm sorry, maybe it's a little bit cynical. I'm sure it is; but that's the way the system works."

'Just Us Cogs'

It seems to me, the prosecution and punishment of Calley was not simply an attempt to use a non-West Point officer as a scapegoat for the greater policy-level crimes of responsible superiors all the way up to the Cabinet and President. Nor was it just an attempt to make it appear that Calley was a freak rather than a representative of the whole Army's guilt—although the trial may have had these meanings. Calley, William Styron has written, (New York Times Book Review, Sept. 12, 1971), was the American Eichmann. "Both of them, the Nazi functionary and the loutish American officer, attempted exculpation of their enormous crimes through insistence that they were merely cogs in a great machine, that they were merely carrying out orders, that the true guilt lay with others. Both of them finally, in their rancid ordinariness, symbolized the historic moment more dramatically than the flamboyant leaders they served."

Right now, Calley's incarceration — as comfortable and tentative as the President has made it — is the only sign we have that anyone can or will be held responsible for one of the great crimes of our time.

Yet it is true that we hardly have the semblance of justice if our entire guilt is allowed to rest symbolically on one man. Nor does it help to posit an unnamed "power elite" of button-pushers on whom we can blame it all. We have to dig deeper.

Why must these investigations of our conduct of the war be pursued? Because it is essential to our definition of the American character, to our future self-understanding, to the image that the next generation will have of its nation and its fathers — to the faith and hopes of the children who have always asked their dads what they did in the war — and ultimately to the cause of peace and justice itself.

It is significant that much of the current initiative to turn our attention toward war crimes comes from the very young men who witnessed and participated in the crimes.

The recent documentary film, Winter Soldier, based on the public hearing of the Winter Soldier Investigation conducted last year in Detroit by the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, is certainly the most moving example of this phenomenon. Young men with voices choked and faces streamed with tears faced cameras and a hall filled with their fellow citizens and poured out the butchery they had seen; a child stoned to death, heads cut off, a woman raped and slit up the middle, prisoners thrown from helicopters, all because the men had come to see themselves as animals and the Vietnamese as things.

Now the same love of one another that had supported men in battle had brought them together again, as if to a revival meeting, to testify, to confess, to make a desperate humiliating try to save America from itself. The anguish of the group was summed up in an Indian GI who compared the erosion of the American character through violence to the disintegration of the white manred man treaties: "When we made treaties long ago, they were for as long as the grass shall grow and as long as the rivers shall flow . . . The way we are going now, some day the grass ain't going to grow and the rivers aren't going to flow."

A Bad Dream

The decision to keep discussing Mylai and the other war crimes all depends on how we view history: whether we believe man can give a purposeful pattern to events, redress the balance between moral chaos and order by bringing the Nazi butchers before the tribunal at Nuremberg, or mitigate the holocaust of Nagasaki by rebuilding Japan, or purge our traditional collective acquiescence to violence by mass mourning before the TV screens as the Kennedy funeral train rumbles by.

If history is not cumulative and has no direction, and if our collective pasts do not constitute a national self that determines what we can do tomorrow, we can let Mylai go. It is as gone as last summer's bird song. Otherwise, it is no more gone than last night's bad dream.

'One Canada' Slogans Dodging the Issue

By DOUGLAS FISHER

At last the editorial writers of the Montreal Gazette have realized something vital about the country's future. It should be widely understood in all of English-speaking Canada.

Last week the Gazette began a lead editorial:

"Self-determination for Quebec seems to be a more popular idea than most federal politicians have admitted."

The Gazette is talking about one latter-day aspect of the primary problem of Canada. It is so old the debate began with Lord Durham's report to the British government after he investigated the causes of the Rebellion of 1837. Remember that he found "two nations warring in the bosom of a single state."

On a TV program last week several of us challenged an important cabinet minister, Donald MacDonald, Minister of Energy Mines and Resources.

Why would he call Bob Stanfield a "mealy-mouthed prevaricator"? Why would he assert that the Conservative leader was shaky, without a stand on any important issue?

Mr. MacDonald did not renege on such opinions. "Where does Stanfield stand on One Canada?" He went on to recreate the Liberal charge against the opposing parties during the campaign of '68. Mr. Trudeau he said, still stands for "One Canada". For Mr. MacDonald and probably for most Liberals, Mr. Trudeau was, is, and shall be the savior of the nation.

All right. One Canada it is to be . . . again.

Now mark that this is a simple view. It's one exceptionally popular in English-speaking Montreal, for example, with the Gazette. For all the favor the Gazette shows editorially for the Tories, despite the slings it throws at Mr. Trudeau for his mismanagement of the economy, the Gazette, like its more capital "L" Liberal, English language confrere, the Montreal Star, is strongly, indeed absolutely federalist. Separatism, the doctrine that Quebec may separate or should separate or will separate is anathema to both papers.

Such a rigorous opposition to separatism runs through in the rest of Canada beyond Quebec. Oh, a minority of jaundiced Francophones out west may think "Well rid of them!" They are not a major political factor. Their views find no formal place in the federal political parties, not even in the New Democratic Party.

Over a century ago in the U.S. a deep division widened between the Southern and Northern states over slavery. Eventually some Southern states did what they had insisted they might, or could do. They seceded from the Union. That is, their leaders believed they had the right to "self-determination" (although that word was not much used). It was the president, Abraham Lincoln, who denied their right, asserting the Union was one and indivisible. He turned to military force and sustained the Union.

We know the result after a tragic, bitter civil war. By "one Canada" does Mr. Trudeau mean Canada "indivisible" as a country? Is he willing to use military power to keep Quebec in Canada if it should chose through its provincial political processes to separate?

This is putting it bluntly, much more bluntly than vague slogans about "One Canada" or assertions of a belief in Canadian federalism.

Two judgments on this touchy subject have been dear to many of us for five or six years. Firstly most Quebec French-speaking people, even the federalists, do not believe that Canada is forever indivisible. While they may be federalists they believe that the right exists to advocate separatism. That is, Quebec may determine whether it should stay or depart. Secondly, most federal politicians of all parties know this although they do not like to talk about it. Would the analogy with the situation in the U.S. in the 1860s break down?

As one recent federal minister of justice told me: "None of us believe that we would cross the Ottawa River with armed forces to keep Quebec from separating if her people chose that course through electoral politics."

This is what the Gazette has realized . . . realized it out of the recent reaction to the fudging on "self-determination" contained in the House-Senate report on the constitution.

The Gazette now accepts that "the majority of Quebec's members of Parliament support the proposition that a province should have the explicit right to secede from Confederation".

The Gazette concludes that if this is so: "It is obviously an issue that cannot be shunned as easily as it has in the past." Amen to that. It should not be evaded with empty slogans like "One Canada".

Don't Think About It . . .

RUSSELL BAKER

Here, at last, is something every American has needed for years — a concise guide to the Vietnam War which will help him avoid thinking about the Vietnam War:

1. Start of Vietnam War — Some authorities say the Vietnam War started in 1937; others say it was 1941. Partisan Democrats say President Eisenhower started it during the 1950's; Republicans say President Kennedy started it. It is best not to think about when the Vietnam War started, because it will not make any difference anyhow.

2. Who is President Lyndon B. Nixonger? — It was during the Lyndon B. Nixonger Administration that the Vietnam War was escalated, coonskinned, Vietnamized, re-Americanized, Simonized and sold to the South Vietnamese as the best used war available anywhere at comparable price. Many people report that thinking about President Lyndon B. Nixonger depresses them, whereas people who do not think about him say they feel fine. It is best not to think about President Lyndon B. Nixonger, since it will not make any difference anyhow.

3. Light at end of tunnel — Ever since the Vietnam War started (and remember, don't start thinking about when that might have been) there has been light at the end of the tunnel, which, decoded from the Pentagonese, means that victory has been just around the corner. Many experts, in fact, say we won the war four years ago when the enemy was defeated at TET time. Others contend that the war is still going on. It is a waste of time thinking about whether the war is still going on or not, since it will not make any difference anyhow.

4. Antiwar demonstrations — The important thing to remember about antiwar demonstrations is that they don't make any difference. Do not think about them.

5. Why are we in Vietnam? — It is not a good idea to go around asking this question, because very few people know the answer. Those who do know the answer do not agree on what it is. Even if you knew the answer, what difference would it make? We would still be in Vietnam. It is best not to think about why we are there, because it will not make any difference anyhow.

6. Paris peace talks — Peace talks began in Paris four years ago. In the span of time since elapsed — a span in which the Allied powers were able to defeat the Kaiser in the First World War; in which the United States and its Allies were able to defeat the Axis in the Second World War — the Paris peace talks have agreed on the shape of the conference table. Many persons say there aren't any peace talks. Others says that if we were fighting the Kaiser today we would be on his side. It is idle to think about the Paris peace talks, because they will not make any difference anyhow.

7. Pitiful helpless giant — Most experts agree that if North Vietnam would surrender, the war could be ended. Because of the childish Oriental insistence on "saving face", however, they will not give up. To do so, they say, would make them look like a pitiful helpless giant. There is no point in thinking about the absurdity of this attitude, because it will not make any difference anyhow.

8. Secret war-ending plan — Four years ago Lyndon B. Nixonger said he had a secret plan for ending the war, but refused to tell us what it was until he was re-elected. Some experts say it has been secretly working beautifully; others insist that Nixonger has forgotten what the secret plan was. There is no point in worrying about the secret plan, since it will not make any difference anyhow.

9. War not an issue — Politicians agree that the war will not be an issue in the forthcoming presidential election. This is because the voters will not think about the war. The reason voters will not think about the war is because it doesn't make any difference whether they think about it or not.

10. Laos — There is general agreement that Laos exists, but the United States Government resents people who think about it. This is because the war there is being waged by the Central Intelligence Agency, and is, therefore, classified "top secret". It is better not to think about Laos, not only because the Justice Department has several grand juries sniffing about for incipient Ellsbergs, but also because it will not make any difference anyhow.

11. Taxpayer responsibility — You may ask: "Am I, as the purchaser of the destructive wherewithal brought to bear upon Vietnam, responsible for the devastation of that miserable country?" Most experts agree that you are. Some experts say there is no reason to feel bad, because the Vietnamese have brought it on themselves. Others say there is no reason to feel bad, because it is going to go right on happening, no matter how you feel. The best thing is not to think about responsibility, since it will not make any difference anyhow.

12. What can the responsible citizen do? — Vote for the Lyndon B. Nixonger of your choice. When he is re-elected do not make it hard on him by doing a lot of thinking.

CITY MANAGER BYPASSED?

City manager Bill Hooson isn't being consulted by aldermen as much as he should be, Ald. Percy Frampton said today.

Frampton said new operating policies set by Mayor Peter Pollen, encouraging aldermen to deal directly with department heads as much as possible, tend to make them bypass the city manager and limit his authority.

"If we are going to work on the system of having a city manager we should set the policy and say 'this is what we want done,'" Frampton said.

"But he (Hooson) isn't getting a chance to do that at the moment. In some ways we are going over his head and this tends to take away some of his authority."

Frampton said he believes Hooson's authority should not be curtailed in any way, although "this may be the policy of the mayor."

HEAVIER WORKOAD

He said there is much talk these days about aldermen having to bear a heavier work load, and this could be partly the result of not making sufficient use of the manager.

"Obviously we need a certain amount of communication with department heads but to spend hours with them on things like getting routine information is just a waste of time," Frampton said.

Ald. Clyde Savage said while he consults department heads frequently, he handles major matters through contact with the city manager "which is the way it should be."

NO COMMENT

Pollen declined to comment on Frampton's remarks today. He did say, however, that Hooson like other city officials and aldermen, has more work to handle these days.

"If his desk is anything like mine I can't see how he can be sitting there twiddling his thumbs," Pollen said.

Hooson said today he is experiencing no difficulties under the present system of administration because department heads keep him fully informed.

He said he can't see anything wrong in the involvement of aldermen with the administrative process, because "council is in the final analysis responsible to the citizens for the services provided."

Early Retirement Bid Made

A new bid to get early retirement options enjoyed by other civil servants will be made by B.C. Municipal Officers Association.

At a meeting in Port Alberni at the weekend, some 35 members of the association's Vancouver Island branch endorsed a recommendation to seek amendment of the Superannuation Act to provide for early retirement at age 55 years with 35 years of service.

Saanich clerk Gordon Hayward, member of an association's study committee on the subject, said civil servants in provincial and federal jurisdictions have such an option.

At present there is no allowance made for length of service and a municipal officer has the choice of retiring between the ages of 60 and 65 years.

The request will be placed before the association's annual meeting to be held at the end of May in Victoria, and before the provincial-municipal pension advisory committee, as was done a year ago.

When substantial amendments to the Superannuation Act were made this year, the request was passed over.

ACT CHANGES CONSIDERED

Much of the weekend meeting was concerned with 1972 changes in the Municipal Act, reviewed by Deputy Minister J. D. Baird in a final, pre-retirement appearance before Island municipal officers.

Ozard said the officers desire a further change in the Municipal Act to afford a greater degree of protection to individuals against dismissal.

He said there is a concensus in favor of more explicit rules on the subject, which remains at the discussion level so far.

Meetings of the provincial association next month will be centred at McPherson Playhouse and the Empress Hotel.

Accident Fatal

Seven-year-old Sandreen Pakosz of Campbell River has died in hospital in Victoria as a result of injuries received April 10 when struck by a car while riding her bicycle.

The girl suffered severe head injuries, lacerations and a broken thigh-bone when hit by a car driven by Alex Kennedy of Campbell River. Campbell River RCMP said no charges will be laid.

13 Fellowships Won

The awards are worth between $3,500 and $5,500. The winners — a total of 967 — were chosen from among 2,905 applicants.

Victoria winners E. A. Bristowe, D. L. Draper, A. S. G. Edwards, R. D. Hall, Tiju Kava, D. A. Knox, D. C. McDougall, I. H. Munro, S. B. Siegel, Steven Surkes, E. P. Teece, Anthony Tol and P. J. Viel.

Other Island winners are R. K. Whitley of Courtenay, A. Gair of Nanaimo, T. Q. Dom-L. Colk of Duncan, E. M. A. browski of Nanoose Bay.

McGeer Asks for Copy Of Questions Sent to SCs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Pat McGeer, provincial Liberal party leader, said Sunday he would like copies of questions sent to the Ask Your Provincial Government radio series, scheduled to start Saturday.

He said in a statement he wants the questions so he can compile a list of all unanswered questions and release the list at the end of the 16-week program.

"At the same time," he said, "I am requesting donations for a special fund to enable us as members of the opposition . . . to provide alternative answers to those questions we feel have not been answered fairly and satisfactorily by the provincial government."

McGeer said copies of questions should be sent to him at the Legislative Buildings in Victoria, and contribution cheques should be made payable to the Opposition Reply Fund.

He said he would invite NDP leader Dave Barrett to take part in the opposition program. He said receipts would be issued and a full accounting made for all donations.

UVic Grad Wins Grant

University of Victoria graduate student Barrow Baldwin has been awarded the $3,500 R. M. Petrie Memorial Fellowship for 1972.

Baldwin, 24, of 1745 Cedar Hill Cross Road, was chosen as outstanding student astronomer at UVic. The $3,500 is for the first year of the award. It may be awarded for a second year for $4,000.

Baldwin is presently completing studies for his master's degree and will study for his doctorate at UVic.

The award is in honor of R. M. Petrie, a long-time astronomer at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich.

MONTEGO

With competition like Cutlass, Sebring, LeMans, Monte Carlo, Charger and Skylark, we had to make it.

And it earned us Road Test Magazine's Car of the Year Award.

Montego is one car that's completely new for 1972. We put together a lot of better ideas to win you over. We gave it a ride, maneuverability and ease of handling that's superb. And we won Road Test's Car of the Year Award. We gave it a similar four-bar link suspension that we put on our most expensive cars. And we gave it more headroom, legroom and luggage capacity than most of our competition.

Outside, Montego is totally beautiful with a styling that's clean and uncluttered. Inside, you'll find unsurpassed luxury. The Montego MX has full width seats of richly woven cloth and vinyl, deeply foam-padded, to hold you in soft but firm comfort. A two-spoke steering wheel gives the driver a clear view of the five circular instrument pods, which are set off by panel facings of simulated cherrywood. Underfoot, there's deep loop nylon carpeting. And each car has a deluxe sound insulation system designed to keep street sounds out and the luxury of quiet in.

But the best way for you to find out why Montego won the Car of the Year Award is to test-drive it yourself.

Try any one of the 9 exciting models. You can choose from 2-doors, slightly larger 4-doors or station wagons. You'll soon discover all the advantages Montego has over its competition.

At your Mercury Dealers.

We've made it the way you want it.

Each year, just about this time, we plan a pet food promotion as a demonstration of the type of selection that we offer in all our food sections. Because we carry such a wide range of brands of pet food, many of the manufacturers offer specially good buys during this promotion so that you are attracted to try their brand. So if you're not familiar with the big choice in pet food you find at Woodward's, and if you were to get good buys on many brands, head for Woodward's this week.

'Energy Crisis Here'

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (CP) — The energy crisis is here says Glenn E. Nielson, chairman of the board of Husky Oil Ltd.

Nielson told a convention of Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico petroleum marketers, that every facet of the oil industry needs to work together to ensure consumers of future supplies.

He said the crisis, which was recognized a few years ago by industry and now by government, is reaching its "third phase," that being the necessity to inform the public at large of the shortage.

Energy resources, which in the past have been inexpensive and plentiful, were no longer in surplus. In fact, the rationing of natural gas supplies has already begun and it will only be a short time before the same situation could arise with oil.

SECONDARY SOURCES

"This does not mean that we are out of all forms of energy. What it does mean is that we will have to turn to secondary sources, such as oil sands, oil shales and the conversion of coal into synthetic petroleum and natural gas. The United States contains over 48 per cent of the world's known coal reserves and that alone offers a great potential for future oil supplies."

Additional sources of energy would result in a higher cost to the consumer for his future.

Nielson also stressed the need for a co-operative program between the United States and Canada as a means of meeting the impending energy crisis. The United States with its vast markets and Canada with its potential reserves should work together for the mutual benefit of both nations.

B.C. Flying 'Treacherous'

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia is one of the most treacherous flying areas in the world, Capt. Ron Richardson of the federal air transport search and rescue squad said here Saturday.

Capt. Richardson and Vancouver pilot Cliff Sandison addressed the national conference of the Canadian Owners and pilots Association, giving tips on how to improve flying techniques and safety measures.

Capt. Richardson said B.C. is treacherous because of the great number of mountains and valleys which cause hidden air pockets and up and down drafts which can change without warning.

Bren Mac To Meet Standards

SEATTLE (AP) — A Canadian mining firm which proposes a copper operation in the Sultan Basin east of Everett says it will take all possible steps to protect water quality and the environment.

Everett Mayor Robert Anderson said earlier he was concerned that Bren Mac Mines Ltd. might not be financially capable of investing funds in water quality control. The proposed mining area is in Everett's watershed.

Anderson said his fears were spurred by word of the state department of natural resources was considering investing money in the project on state-owned land.

"Bren Mac, from the beginning, has given all assurances that everything will be done to protect the quality of the water and all other environmental aspects of the project and the area," company president L. N. Udell said here.

RIGID CONTROLS

"We assume Mayor Anderson is for the development of the mining property under strict and rigid controls, just as we are sure he is vitally concerned in the economic success of all industries in Snohomish Country," Udell's statement said.

He said test drilling by Bren Mac "has indicated a potential of some 71 million tons of copper-molydbenum-tungsten mineralization" in the Sultan Basin.

Preliminary feasibility studies have been completed, with investment of some $1.5 million in the project by Bren Mac, and the firm is prepared to proceed "with the final feasibility study which will determine whether actual mining should be undertaken," Udell said.

Praises Spring Out When Records Don't

Crystal Pool passed its first big test at the weekend and if comments of visiting officials are any indication Victoria is on the brink of a great future for competitive swimming.

Words of praise flowed after the three-day, Victoria International Invitational swim meet wound up Sunday with six Canadian records broken and most events hotly contested by more than 200 competitors from 23 clubs.

"We're very happy with the response and how it came out," said Dave Geddes, vice-president of the Victoria Olympians, co-sponsors of the meet with the Juan de Fuca Cohos.

Geddes pointed out the meet was sanctioned for Olympic qualifying times and is believed to be the first foreign meet to receive official recognition of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union.

"The American coaches were really impressed by the pool. The future for swimming here is just great," praised Tor Bengtson, communications chairman for the B.C. section of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association.

It was the first long-course meet (50-metre pool) of the year, and swimmers set Canadian marks during the first two days but record efforts tapered off Sunday.

The Canadian Dolphins Club of Vancouver won four individual events to compile a whopping 1,413 points and easily win the team award over American clubs, which took the next three places.

Four national records tumbled Saturday as Rick Colella of Seattle set a new open mark, Jennifer McHugh established her second and third national age-group records in two days, and the Acadia Swim Club of Calgary set an age-group mark for 13 and 14-year-olds in the 400-metre freestyle final.

Colella, a 20-year-old University of Washington student, set the open mark in the 400-metre individual medley final, going the route in 4:44.4 to knock 1.3 seconds off the record set by Ray Terrell of Great Britain during the 1971 national championships in Edmonton.

Miss McHugh, 14, of the Dolphins broke the 400-metre freestyle record by finishing in 4:47.0, and 400-metre individual medley mark with a clocking of 5:26.1.

Bears and Lions Reach Grid Final

Bears and Lions will clash for the Oak Bay Invader Youth Football League playoff title after collecting decisive semi-final victories on Sunday.

Darwin Enjoys Success With Evolution Theory

By The Associated Press

The modern version of Darwin's theory of evolution is happening in Minneapolis. Bobby Darwin has evolved from a pitcher to a hitter.

"You can't make a mistake on him, he's just too strong," said Oakland manager Dick Williams after Darwin burned the Athletics with a two-run homer in Minnesota's 8-4 victory Sunday.

From hitting batters in the minor leagues, the Twins' 29-year-old rookie sensation has gone to hitting pitchers. He's had four home runs in five games this season.

Before his turnabout, Darwin worked on the mound for eight years in the minors. He switched to the outfield in 1970, striking 40 home runs in two seasons of minor league ball in the Los Angeles Dodgers' chain.

He caught the attention of Minnesota scouts and the Twins obtained him on Oct. 22, 1971, in a trade for outfielder Paul Ray Powell.

HOMERS OFF HOLTZMAN

In other American League games Sunday, Texas Rangers defeated California Angels 5-2; Chicago White Sox nipped Kansas City Royals 3-2; Cleveland Indians downed Baltimore Orioles 2-1 and Milwaukee Brewers trimmed Detroit Tigers 3-0. The New York Yankees' game at Boston was rained out.

Scipio Spinks unfurled a five-hitter as St. Louis Cardinals breezed to a 6-1 victory and handed Montreal Expos their first defeat of the National League season. The Expos had won their first five games.

Elsewhere in the National, Houston Astros exploded for 10 runs in the ninth inning to topple the San Francisco Giants 13-7; New York Mets swept a doubleheader from Chicago Cubs 8-2 and 7-6 in 12 innings; San Diego Padres edged Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1, and, in a pair of 11-inning games, Philadelphia Phillies beat Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4 and Atlanta Braves overhauled Cincinnati Reds 4-3.

Darwin's blast in the second inning wiped out a 1-0 Oakland edge and started the Twins on their way. The outfielder later got another hit to give him nine in 18 at-bats. He has knocked in 10 runs.

Phil Roof later drove in two runs with a pair of doubles and Danny Thompson contributed two singles and a double and chased in a run as Minnesota unloaded a 13-hit attack for pitcher Bert Blyleven.

Richie Allen knocked in two early runs with a home run and triple, then scored the game-winner on an infield error in the eighth as Chicago beat Kansas City. Allen opened the rally with a one-out single and moved to second on Bill Melton's single. He then came home as Carlos May grounded into a forceout and shortstop Bob Floyd threw wild past first in an attempt at a double play.

Royals to Meet Vikings in Final

Cosmopolitan Royals, the defending title-holders and league champions this season, defeated fourth-place Victoria West 3-1 at Heywood Avenue Park to gain a berth in the first-division final.

University of Victoria Vikings, runners-up this season, blanked third-place London Boxing Club 1-0 in the other semi at Topaz Park.

Jim Marshall scored the lone goal while Dave Achurch recorded the shutout in the UVic net.

UVic Norsemen, defending second-division champion and first-place finisher this season, took a somewhat rockier route to the final by nipping fourth-place Lake Hill 1-0 in overtime at UVic.

John McCandless scored the lone goal after 10 minutes of overtime, played in two 15-minute halves.

Finals will be played next Sunday.

De Busschere Gets 'Em All

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave De Busschere of the New York Knicks hit a National Basketball Association high Saturday when he was chosen unanimously on the league's all-defensive team for 1971-72. No other player in NBA history had ever received all first-team votes from the panel of 17 head coaches.

Each first-team vote counted for two points, a second-team vote one. Thus, the 10-year veteran forward got a total of 34 points, followed by Los Angeles' guard Jerry West, with 30.

Rangers Sweep Chicago Aside

NEW YORK (CP) — New York Rangers, showing a tenacity that could not be denied, humiliated Chicago Black Hawks 6-2 Sunday night to enter the Stanley Cup hockey finals for the first time in 22 years.

The Rangers first-ever four-game playoff sweep came on two goals by veteran Bobby Rousseau and one each by Phil Goyette, Rod Gilbert, Vic Hadfield and young Gene Carr. But the victory was essentially a team effort, as was the case all through the Rangers' 4-2 quarter-final victory over Montreal Canadiens and three narrow wins over the Black Hawks prior to Sunday.

Bobby Hull, 33-year-old long-time ace of the Chicago team, worked his heart out in an effort to prevent a Ranger sweep, and scored the first goal of the game unassisted while his team was shorthanded. The second Chicago goal, by Pat Stapleton, also was unassisted. It came on a second-period power play and narrowed the New York margin to 3-2. From then on it was all downhill for Chicago.

THE CAT PURS AGAIN

"We got a tremendous effort from everyone," said Emile Francis, the Ranger general-manager coach, who must be tempted to put the statement on tape for regular use after games involving this fired-up Ranger team. He added:

"A lot of guys there would not be denied. I just can't say enough about this team."

"I didn't think the Rangers could beat this club four straight but they got stronger as they went on," he said in the dressing room. "Their defence was much better than ours and physically they seemed stronger than us."

The biggest ovation from the capacity Madison Square Garden crowd—except for the cheering at the final buzzer—came at 18:22 of the second period for Carr, the nervous rookie acquired from St. Louis. Carr scored his first playoff goal on a passing play with linemates Walt Tkaczuk and Bill Fairbairn, who had another tremendous night as penalty killers.

Not only was the series the first ever won by the Rangers in four games, but it was their first-ever series victory over Chicago. The Rangers, who won the last of their three Stanley Cups in 1940, beating Toronto, have not been in a cup final since 1950, when they lost 4-3 in games to Detroit.

BLUES OPEN TO FINE AFTER USING McDUFFE

ST. LOUIS (AP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League and St. Louis Blues took sharply different views on the Blues' use of rookie goaltender Peter McDuffe during the third game of their Stanley Cup semi-final series against Boston Bruins Sunday.

Campbell, who sat in the press box for the first period of Boston's 7-2 victory, said the Blues subjected themselves to penalty by suiting Jacques Caron as backup to the 24-year-old McDuffe.

"Win, lose or draw they're subject to a heavy fine," said Campbell, who noted the Blues had called up McDuffe from their Denver farm club because Caron was injured.

"This negated the claim," Campbell said.

Blues officials maintained, however, that not only was Caron injured but a third goaltender, Ernie Wakely, also was hurt. "Caron has a groin injury," coach Al Arbour said.

Arbour said executive vice-president Sidney Salomon III conferred with Campbell for two hours early Sunday on the club's plan to use McDuffe and to suit up Caron.

"We operated 100 per cent within the framework of the rules for the playoffs," said Salomon, who indicated any fine from Campbell would be appealed.

It's Tie-Up Time For Kings' Teams

By Canadian Press

Brandon Wheat Kings are back in contention in the semi-finals of the Western Canada Hockey League, thanks largely to Ron Chipperfield.

Chipperfield scored three goals and assisted on another Saturday to lead Brandon to a 6-1 victory, its first in the best-of-seven series, over Regina Pats. On Sunday, he got two more goals including the winner, and one more assist as Brandon beat Regina 5-3 to tie the series, 2-2.

The Edmonton Oil Kings-Calgary Centennials series in the league's Western Division was also tied 2-2 in games after Edmonton rallied Sunday night to edge Calgary, 3-2.

Both the Centennials and Edmonton have each won their home games but the next game in the series is scheduled to rtonight in Medicine Hat because no suitable arena is available in Calgary.

Brandon is at Regina tonight in the other series.

On Sunday in Winnipeg, Chipperfield scored the winner with less than four minutes remaining in the game when he swept around behind the Regina net and tucked ths puck into the corner.

In Edmonton, the Oil Kings' Tom Bladon and John Rogers scored two goals in just over a minute in the third period to come from behind to victory.

Second Racing Win Adds to Birthday Fun

Price, who snapped a two-year win famine by taking the season-opener last weekend, collected his second feature victory after starting in 13th position.

Weaving his way through the pack, Price took over the lead from Larry Walker on the 17th lap and was never seriously challenged the rest of the way.

Rick O'Dell, who set fast time for the second straight meet, finished two car-lengths behind Price while Walker wound up in third place.

Tony Johnson passed early leader Larry LePard on the 12th lap en route to a victory in the 25-lap stock car main event. Johnson started in the 16th spot.

Wayne Morris won the inaugural claimer race.

No Relief in Sight For Hapless Blues

ST. LOUIS (CP) — They're calling it the longest wake in National Hockey League history. And with good reason.

St. Louis Blues are either an expansionist joke or are subjecting loyal fans and Boston Bruins to an overplayed scene from old Roman days when they fed Christians to the lions.

The Blues offered little more than token resistance while being led once again to the slaughter Sunday afternoon, falling 7-2 to the overpowering Bruins.

Following up 6-1 and 10-2 Bruin victories at Boston Garden, it marked the third straight game in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final that St. Louis suffered through trials and tribulations.

The Blues opened an early 1-0 lead on Mike Murphy's powerplay goal at 2:05 and had the heavily-favored Bruins reeling for the first five minutes before Boston recovered for a 3-1 lead going into the second period.

SAW IT COMING

"We expected them to come out strong," said Boston general manager Milt Schmidt, "but I felt if we could hold them for the first period we'd take them."

However, Schmidt, the one-time Bruins' centre ace of the famed Kraut Line, would not hazard a prediction on the outcome of game No. 4 here Tuesday night, starting at 8 p.m. PST.

The Blues wilted Sunday in the face of Boston goaltender Ed Johnston's sharp reflexes and the overwhelming Bruin firepower that produced two goals each from John McKenzie and Mike Walton.

Veteran Ed Westfall broke the Blues' offence-minded pattern at 8:40 of the first period, McKenzie added another about two minutes later, and Phil Esposito provided the clincher 18 seconds before the period ended with his seventh playoff goal.

Blues' rookie goaltender Peter McDuffe provided little relief for the St. Louis goaltending problem that has already yielded a near-record 23 goals in three games.

It was no contest in the second period as the Bruins opened a 6-1 lead and traded goals with the Blues in the final 20 minutes.

Ken Hodge provided the other Boston score while Gary Sabourin notched the second St. Louis goal at 18:15 of the final period.

Three other second-period goals were called back by referee Art Skov who kept a tight rein on both clubs.

Mitchell Wins Champs' Event

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Bobby Mitchell sank a dramatic 20-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole Sunday and defeated heavily-favored Jack Nicklaus in a playoff for the title in pro golf's Tournament of Champions.

Mitchell blew a chance to win in regulation when he missed an 18-inch putt on the 17th hole. He finished the 72 holes in a tie with Nicklaus at 280.

Mitchell, who had won only once before in a six-year pro tour career, had a final round 70, two under par on the long and tough La Costa Country Club course.

Nicklaus, the recently crowned Masters king who was shooting for his fourth victory of the season, had a final round 72, including a two-over-par 6 on the fifth hole.

Nicklaus, who gained the playoff when the scrambling Mitchell went one over on the 17th hole, hit his tee shot on the par-three 14th hole—the first playoff hole—into the deep rough on the left.

Nicklau s chipped out, about six feet beyond the cup, and Mitchell, who has been a pro since he was 15, rolled in the birdie putt and leaped high in the air as he recorded the second victory of his career.

Vi Squires, Hickey Win Pin Crowns

By DOUG PEDEN
Times Staff

Vi Squires went gunning for glory with a familiar fashion Sunday at Town and Country Lanes while Fred Hickey staked his victory chances on a new style.

In each case it was a happy and profitable decision as Mrs. Squires and Hickey chalked up triumphs in five-pin sections of the ninth annual Times Bowler-of-the-Year rolloffs.

Deciding against making any changes in her usual delivery and concentrating on rolling her straight ball into the pocket, Vi set the pace for distaff fivepinners as she fired games of 283, 217 and 294 for a three-game total of 797 and a 25-point margin over fast-finishing Dorothy Krimmer.

Hickey, who shifted his approach position on the Town and Country boards about three weeks ago, stayed with the new style and made it pay off with a solid 852 series.

The 34-year-old stylist, well down the list as he opened with a 205 game, rattled the pins for a whopping 353 in his second game to charge out in front.

Fred wrecked hopes of his pursuers by running off a string of five successive strikes in the third game before finishing with 294 for a comfortable, 68-point margin over Ken Preston.

Preston jumped out of the pack by notching a sizzling final-game tally of 334 for 784 while consistent Paul Turcotte was third at 769.

For their victories, Mrs. Squires and Hickey each received a Times Trophy and each champion, as a daily subscriber to the Victoria Times, received a bonus prize of $100.

Contestants earned their places in Sunday's rolloffs by winning weekly awards in five-in divisions of the annual, 26-week Times Bowler-of-the-Week competition, capturing the awards by rolling the highest three-game scores in league play on southern Vancouver Island lanes.

Winners of tenpin awards in the contest will be bidding for rolloff honors next Sunday at Mayfair Lanes.

Competing in the five-pin rolloffs for the second time, Mrs. Squires didn't want to make any changes in the delivery that had produced averages of "about 228 and 229" in two leagues during the past season.

Fred Changed Line by Six Boards

"I was just concentrating on throwing the ball straight," she said. "I knew I had to be in (the pocket). My first and third games were good, but I has having trouble in that second game."

Vi picked off a headpin in the final frame, but by that time she was safely ahead of Dorothy Krimmer, who finished with 302 for 772 and Janet Broste, who fired the highest single-game tally (314) by the ladies in her final effort and wound up in third place at 750.

Hickey, who qualified for rolloffs in the first two years of the Bowler-of-the-Week contest, resided in Toronto for six years before returning to Victoria last July.

WINNER IN ONTARIO

Former Pacific Coast champion, winner of a 50-game marathon in Vancouver and top man in four major cash tournaments in Ontario, Hickey qualified in the first week of the 1971-72 Bowler-of-the-Week event with a score of 946.

Owner of averages 265 and 245 while competing in two leagues last winter, Fred shifted his approach position about three weeks ago and promptly ran off a 900 series, including his fourth game of the season of 400 or over.

"I changed my line six boards to right on these lanes and it made quite a difference.

"It sure seems to have helped."

Lakers, Knicks Move Into Final

By The Associated Press

Two years ago Los Angeles Lakers lost the National Basketball Association championship in seven games to the New York Knicks, a team with an injury-ridden but inspiring centre, Willis Reed.

Now, the teams are once again matched in the league's title series but the Lakers won't have to contend with Reed, the Knicks' captain, since he is recovering from early-season surgery.

The Knicks and Lakers both have been pressed in the league's conference finals but each team is going into the championship series at full strength.

Boston Celtics came ready to play the fifth game of their Eastern Conference finals. The Knicks showed up three minutes late.

The Celtics sprinted to a 14-0 lead before Knicks' coach Red Holzman made a few substitutions that got the team on the scoreboard and on their way to a 111-103 victory that put the New Yorkers against the Lakers Wednesday night in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles wrapped up its Western Conference finals Saturday with a 104-100 victory over Milwaukee Bucks, taking the best-of-seven series 4-2.

In the American Basketball Association, the Virginia-New York playoffs resume tonight in New York with the Squires leading the series 2-0. Indiana squared its series with Utah at 2-2 with a 118-108 victory on Saturday. The teams meet again tonight in Salt Lake City.

Canadians Join Protest Against Karate Judges

(Times News Services)

Luiz Tasuke Watanabe of Brazil became the new world karate champion Saturday after the championships in Paris were marred by the walkout of Canada, Japan and the United States.

The Japanese, Americans and Canadians all withdrew in a row over the standard of the judging throughout the championship.

The protesters said some of the judges were not qualified in karate, but only in judo, and felt that the championships were becoming dangerous because too much contact was being allowed.

The Canadians and Americans both felt they did not stand a fair chance of winning with the judges controlling the matches. The Americans, in particular, were highly critical of the organization in France.

Lake Hill Top Team in Tourney

SHUTOUT TRIUMPH

By JACK KEATING
Times Staff

"Everyone was out of his mind down here waiting to get on the field," said a happy Harold Holroyd beneath the Royal Athletic Park stands, "and when they got out there, they got down to it and everyone played well."

With jubilant shouts from his excited players ofter drowning out his words, Holroyd was explaining reasons for his team's success.

He and Ron Thomson had just finished coaching Lake Hill Builders to an impressive 3-0 triumph over Westminster Langley Sports Club in Sunday's fifth division final as the two-day provincial "Tournament of Soccer" champions was concluding before about 2,300 fans.

The Builders were the second Victoria-area squad to join the list of champions in the 20th annual showcase of provincial juvenile soccer. Prospect Lake Public Service Legion shared the second division crown after battling to a 2-2 deadlock with Westminster Blue Mountain Thistles in a Saturday match.

While Thomson, Holroyd and manager Norm Zapf were reviewing Lake Hill's list of accomplishments during the season, members of the awards committee were reviewing the team's brilliance on the field just a few hours earlier.

OUTSTANDING TEAM

Dave Stothard, Jimmy Spencer and Brian Hughes remembered well. They selected the Builders to receive the Sun Tropy as the tourney's outstanding team and they picked three Lake Hill Players to the all-star team.

Goaltender Gordon Reading, who registered 16 shutouts during the season, back Ian Bridge and winger Mark McNally were the Lake Hill lads named to the dream team.

Fifteen-year-old Dave Kinley, a centre half on third division Westminster Blue Mountain Cewes, was named "Soccer Boy" as the outstanding player. Warren Powell of sixth division Vancouver Dunbar Stongs was named runner-up.

Lake Hill's running style and neat passing was too much for the Westminster side, but the match produced some hectic action and was perhaps the best game of the tourney.

Two rapid-fire goals — by Michael Alabarton, who connected from 25 yards out, and by Randy Keller, from a Mark Charlton pass — snapped a scoreless deadlock around the 20-minute mark and gave Lake Hill a 2-0 lead at half time.

Westminster improved in the second half and only a couple of sparkling saves by Reading kept the Mainlanders scoreless. Defender Wayne Woloschuck also prevented a goal by clearing a loose ball just as a Westminster forward was about to tap it into the net.

TWO-GOAL MARGIN

Tom Elwell sent the Lake team ahead by scoring at the six-minute mark and Tom Elwell increased the lead at 21 minutes.

Robert Moore scored for Thistles 17 minutes into the second half and the tiring Legion side clung to the lead until Robert Allen fired the equalizer at 35-minutes.

In Sunday's feature first-division match, Richmond Wanderers and Burnaby Cliff Avenue United fought to a 1-1 tie to also share the B.C. crown. Jamie Buchanan blasted in the tying goal on a penalty shot late in the first half a ter Blair Johennessen had scored for Cliff Avenue.

BEAVERS WIN TITLE

In Sunday's final game, North Shore Burdett Beavers shaded Cliff Avenue on a late goal by Michiel Hopper in a spirited seventh division encounter. The goal, with two minutes left, spoiled an outstanding effort by United goalie Chris Cowie.

In Saturday's other action Cewes dumped Cliff Avenue 5-2 in a rough contest, which was marred by a couple of fights. Tom Forss, on penalty shots, and Tom Newman each scored two goals for Westminster. Mike Malfesi collected the winner's other goal and Kelly McLenaghen notched both Burnaby tallies.

First-half goals by Angelo Pulice and Mike Duffels powered Vancouver Grandview United to a 2-0 triumph over South Burnaby Men's Club Royals in fifth division play, and Powell netted three goals as Stongs shout out Richmond Legion 4-0.

Professionals Struggle In Island Open Matches

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

It was a struggling day for professionals in the Times Vancouver Island Open match-play golf championships.

Three had their work cut out for them before advancing to the quarter-finals and two fell by the wayside Sunday at Gorge Vale Golf Club.

Defending champion and favored Bill Wakeham of Cowichan, two-time winner Vaughan Trapp of Victoria Club and Al Zimmerman, the retired 63-year-old pro playing out of Glen Meadows, were the professionals hard-pressed before advancing to next Sunday's quarter-finals at Uplands.

CEDAR HILL TRIO

They were joined by amateurs Bill Shvetz of Uplands, Brian Sluggett of Glen Meadows and Cedar Hill's youthful triumvirate of Brian Gandy, Greg Barnes and Gordie Rands.

No one worked harder for the ticket into the eights than Zimmerman. Three down with three holes to play, the defending Pacific Northwest PGA Seniors' champion charged from behind and then defeated Royal Colwood's Bruce Pelmore on a second extra hole.

Trapp also came from behind before knocking off Glen Meadows professional Dick Silverberg on the 19th, while Wakeham found his handful in Tim Horrigan, a 21-year-old Gorge Vale amateur. Two down after nine holes, the defending champion also had to come from behind to trip Horrigan 2 and 1.

CUSH ON SIDELINES

Ron Cush, an unattached pro who plays out of Cedar Hill, was the other professional to join Silverberg on the sidelines. He bowed on the 18th to Cedar Hill greenskeeper Greg Barnes.

Rands, who turned 19 only two months ago and looms as the darkhorse threat because of his strong play in recent weeks, enjoyed one of the day's easiest romps. He lost only one hole — taking a double-bogey six on the par-four 12th — en route to a 6 and 5 triumph over Colwood's Side Murdoch.

If there was any surprise in the second round, it was marked up by Shvetz. The former pro hockey player and now Uplands' greens superintendent defeated Ted Langlois, the runnerup medallist from Gorge Vale, 4 and 3.

STEADY PERFORMANCE

Gandy, 21, turned in a steady performance to trip Tommy Maftechuk of the Gorge, 3 and 2 while Suggett downed George Moon of Gorge Vale, 6 and 4.

Five Gorge players advanced to the eights in the handicap division race for the Hugh Francis Trophy. They are Jeff Jones, Alastair Fulton, Terry Moody, Bill Burrows and Mike Kolb.

Rick Carmichael of March Meadows and Dick Sparks and Frank Kilshaw, both of Uplands, completed the quarter-final lineup.

EAGLE SQUARES MATCH

The surprising Horrigan, scrambling out of trouble situations on three holes, didn't allow Wakeham to win a hole until the 10th. The Cowichan pro then squared the match by scoring an eagle three on the par-five 11th after spanking a four wood to within four feet of the hole on his second shot.

Horrigan also reached the green in two and was conceded a birdie four when Wakeham sank his putt for the eagle.

A "bad bounce" cost Silverberg his victory on the 19th. He hit what appeared to be a perfect shot "right at the stick." The ball failed to hold on the green and wound up in a difficult position in the fringe behind the green.

While it appeared that Silverberg might have overclubbed, he defended his choice of using an eight iron.

"I'd use the same club," he said. "The ball landed 15 feet short of the hole, but it took off for some reason."

The remarkable Zimmerman, the clear-cut favorite with the senior citizens, needed a change in putting fortunes to fashion his comeback. Dormied when he came to the 16th, he rapped in crucial seven-footer for a hole-claiming par.

He also won 17 with a par when Pelmore's approach shot caught a trap.

The match went into extra holes when both Pelmore and Zimmerman three-putted the 18th, the difference being the fact that the pro reached the green in two while Pelmore took three pops.

They halved the 19th and then went to the deciding par-three 20th.

Both missed the green with their tee shots. Zimmerman came up short by about a foot-and-a-half, while Pelmore overshot the green by about the same margin. Zimmerman, putting off the fringe, lagged his second to about eight inches from the cup. Pelmore chipped four feet short, then missed the difficult putt.

COMEBACK HASTENED BY RYUN'S GREAT RUN

It was the 20th time Ryun has run the mile under four minutes outdoors, and the 29th time in all competition. His quarter times were 59.5 seconds, 61.9, 61.9 and 53.8.

Tom Von Ruden of the Pacific Coast Track Club was second in 3:57.9, and Larry Rose, also of the Pacific Coast Club, third in 3:59.6.

Ryun's world record time in the mile is 3:51.1, set in 1967.

Derby Eligibles Get Discouraging Hint

By the Associated Press

Upper Case fulfilled trainer Lucien Laurin's wish Saturday by beating nine Kentucky Derby eligibles in the $118,400 Wood Memorial on a sloppy track at Aqueduct.

Aurin, a native of St. Paul, Que., said before the race: "I hope he runs a big race so it will discourage some of these others from going to the Derby."

Upper Case was not nominated for the Derby, but Riva Ridge, also trained by Laurin and owned by Meadow Stable, is the early favorite to win the first race of the U.S. Triple Crown.

If Upper Case's performance was not enough to discourage other trainers of Wood horses from sending their charges to the Derby, the second and fourth-place finishers, respectively, True Knight and Forage, might be.

They were the only other non-Derby eligibles in the field of 12 three-year-olds.

Upper Case, ridden by Ron Turcotte of Grand Falls, N.B., finished 1½ lengths ahead of True Knight as the 2-to-1 favorite. True Knight, in turn, was four lengths ahead of Derby candidate Head of the River. Forage was another 3½ lengths back.

Upper Case, nominated for both the Preakness and the Belmont, now has four victories, three seconds and a third in eight starts this year.

At Albany, Calif., Bill Shoemaker rode Quack to a convincing two-length victory in the $100,000 California Derby at Golden Gate Fields. Solar Salute and Royal Owl were far behind in the West Coast's final tuneup for the May 6 Derby.

Kentuckian, who could be headed for the Derby, finished second and Pie Host was a surprising third in the field of seven three-year-olds that competed in the 1⅛-mile event.

Solar Salute and Royal Owl, considered the West Coast's top Kentucky Derby candidates, were fourth and fifth respectively.

Quack's time was 1:48 1-5, one second off the record for the event set by Unconscious last year.

At Inglewood, Calif., Typecast, a six-year-old mare, won a three-quarter-length victory in the $55,000 Long Beach Handicap at Hollywood Park.

Balcony's Babe was second and favored Manta was third.

The time for the 1 1-16 miles on the turf course was 1:41 1-5.

Paul's Advance To Coast Final

VANCOUVER (CP) — Paul's Canadians defeated North Shore 4-2 Sunday to enter the final of the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

Paul's will meet the winner of the game between Victoria West-United and New Westminster Blues, to be played next Saturday in Victoria.

Harold Hansen opened the scoring for Paul's at the 30-minute mark o fthe first half. Bobby Smith of North Shore was thrown out of the game five minutes later and the club was forced to play short-handed the rest of the way.

In the second half, Rick Seder tied the game for North Shore at eight minutes, but Ron MacDonald put Paul's in front again at 20 minutes.

Gerela put the game out of reach with his second goal of the game at 36 minutes.

What to look for in an economy car.
(besides the price)

Now with some economy cars, looking for anything besides the price would be a waste of time. Simply because there's just not much else to look at.

That's what separates our economy car from other economy cars. Corolla is more than a pretty price.

Much more. And it's all standard.

Take a minute and have a look here. Then go around to a showroom and have a look there.

Fortune Goes to the Dogs

NEWPORT, Ky. — Eva Tranter loved dogs so much she bequeathed her estate of $400,000 to the Campbell Country Animal Protective Association. To her relatives, she left a few items including lamps, dolls and wigs. She died Sept. 2, 1970, at the age of 85.

Lawyer Paul Steer, who drew up the will, confirmed Miss Tranter left the money for the association. The group plans to meet Wednesday to discuss using the money for an addition to the animal shelter.

The celebrants sang Nazi battle songs, watched a 1938 movie on Hitler's leadership of Germany, and heard speeches calling on "white peoples of the world" to unite against blacks and Jews.

Hitler was born in Austria April 23, 1889.

BERKHAMSTED, England — Graham Andrews felt his responsibility as best man keenly and was determined that bridegroom Bob Brackley should be at the ceremony in time. So he chained him to the railings outside the marriage registry office 14 hours before he was to get married.

Graham then threw away the key and went home. Eventually the fire department came and freed the constrained groom. But Bob wasn't late for the wedding — he married 20-year-old Jill Ross on time.

PRETORIA — Nine-year-old Adriaan Grobler, who fell four storeys from an apartment in Rietfontein near this South African city, not only lived but jumped up and ran two blocks before fainting.

Doctors later said he had broken his arm in two places, but his condition was described as satisfactory.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Ten-year-old Lisa Starr and her sister Deborah, 14, were called to jury duty last week in Sedgwick County district court.

"It was just one of those computer goofs," explained Howard C. Kline, administrative judge.

TOKYO — Shoichi Yokoi, the Japanese army sergeant who hid in Guam's jungles for 26 years rather than surrender, mingled with his countrymen in the streets of Tokyo at the weekend for the first time in more than three decades.

Yokoi has been recuperating in hospital since he returned from Guam in February.

TORONTO — Celia Franca, artistic director of the National Ballet of Canada, has accepted an invitation to serve on the jury of the second Moscow international ballet competition in June, 1973.

A spokesman for the company said it is the first time a representative from Canada has been asked to serve as a jury member at any ballet competition in the Soviet Union.

BRIGHTON, England — The post office has apologized to Mrs. Julia Roff for her $2,604 quarterly telephone bill. A spokesman said she was accidently overcharged by 40,000 call units.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — A former Sea World secretary, who was injured last year while riding Shamu the killer whale, has filed a $2 million damage suit.

Anne Eckis, 23, was clad in a bikini when she slipped off Shamu while posing for publicity pictures. The whale gripped her leg and held her for two minutes before attendants could free her.

LAWNDALE, Calif. — Sheriff's deputies thought they had a murder on their hands when parts of a human body, wrapped in plastic, were found on a freeway ramp.

However, investigation disclosed the package had fallen off a truck delivering specimens from a research centre in Louisiana to the Los Angeles County Medical Centre for health sciences.

Record Snowfall Covers Red Deer

RED DEER (CP) — The central Alberta area around Red Deer returned to near-normal Sunday after what power company officials described as the most devastating snowstorm ever experienced in the district.

A spokesman for Calgary Power Ltd., which supplies electricity to the area, said the storm that started Friday afternoon and continued until Saturday morning with winds of up to 50 m.p.h. constituted "by far the worst disruption ever experienced in central Alberta."

Power was restored to all areas and virtually all farmers Sunday after disruptions throughout the area that ranged from a few minutes up to 32 hours.

Highways in the area were blocked Friday night by heavy, wet snow but were cleared during the weekend as better weather with temperatures just above freezing during the day moved in. Some side roads that had been impassable were muddy or slush-covered.

Too Much Power

CALGARY (CP) — It's unnecessary for police to use high-powered cars, the city finance committee was told.

Chris Stagg, former chief traffic inspector, said in "this day and age" there should be no need for police to chase cars at high speeds and endanger the public, when they could use barricades and radios. In particular, he said, the detective division has no need of high-powered vehicles.

★ ★ ★

Tapes Seized

EDMONTON (CP) — RCMP have seized more than 2,000 tape cartridges here and in Grande Prairie as a part of a nation-wide crackdown on "pirate" tape recordings.

A spokesman said today 1,300 eight-track tapes were seized from an Edmonton distributor and about 700 from Grande Prairie business outlets.

He said similar raids have been carried out in Manitoba and Ontario and more are expected in other parts of Canada.

★ ★ ★

City Summonsed

EDMONTON (CP) — Police have issued six summonses to the city for alleged violations of the anti-noise bylaw by transit system buses and city trucks.

A spokesman in the city's legal department said the department has advised the engineers' department and the transit system to plead guilty to the charges. There is no maximum fine under the bylaw, which police began enforcing March 7.

★ ★ ★

Education First

WINNIPEG (CP) — High schools with complete and varied programs in each community may have to yield to regional facilities in some areas of Manitoba, Education Minister Ben Hanuschak said.

Hanuschak said "it is not the responsibility of the department of education to preserve communities, but to provide in the best way possible the best education possible for Manitoba's children."

★ ★ ★

Russian Impressed

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — A Russian plant scientist visiting the Lethbridge research station of the federal agriculture department last week said "Canada has much more experience in plant science" than the Soviet Union.

Dr. V. A. Dragavtsev was particularly pleased with test samples given to him at Winnipeg for his work on rust resistance in grains. He said the samples will save him up to three years of work.

★ ★ ★

Optimistic View

SASKATOON (CP) — An industrial society on the Prairies, with a bustling aerospace or car industry, within 12 to 15 years has been predicted by James Richardson, federal minister of supply and services.

"We are in the process of building it now," the Liberal Member of Parliament for Winnipeg South said in an interview. "Not only does western Canada have a tremendous agricultural economy, but there are also the mining potentials."

Consumer Lessons

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba government will conduct a consumer information and education program this year to familiarize people with consumer protection laws, the minister of consumer and corporate affairs said Saturday.

A. H. Mackling said the program is designed to prevent consumers, who are quite prepared to buy now and pay later, from falling into debt. He said the consumer protection laws will not be effective until the people are aware of them and use them to advantage.

Fraud Charged

BRANDON (CP) — A former taxi driver charged with impersonating a U.S. psychologist to gain an appointment to Brandon University's faculty, had depositions on 14 counts of fraud drawn up against him at a special hearing which ended here on Saturday.

The hearing, presided over by Manitoba's Chief Magistrate Harold Gyles, Saturday added an additional deposition of fraud after 13 counts were drawn up Friday against the accused, Joseph Robert Bohn, 38, of Worcester, Mass.

Terror on the Way In Shame on the Way Out

Dear Diary: Hippity-hop to the dentist's shop today in my customary blue funk (a '38 Blue Funk with white side-walls and a heater) and I marvel all over again at my sheer, craven cowardice, a legacy, I expect, from my army days when the Dental Corps was equipped only with mallet, chisel and plunger.

Tremendous strides have been made not only to eliminate the pain, but also to eliminate the psychological fears and I hate them all.

I hate the divan upon which you now recline. I want that old-fashioned, massive chair with the marble arm rests that I used to mould like silly-putty in my death grip. I hate the rippy-tippy, tea-for-two Muzak seeping from the walls, especially when my dentist hums along, an affront to a man whose emotions can only be expressed properly by Mussorgsky's Night On Bald Mountain.

The whole atmosphere of my dentist's inner chamber, in fact, seems cunningly designed for a seduction and I resent that too, though I couldn't tell you why. What I resent most, though, is the fact that this cheerful chap has, in fact, all but totally eliminated the pain. Going in with fear is bad enough, but coming out with shame is even worse.

Dear Diary: A pleasant call tonight in response to my notes on Tidal Pool Observing, the caller being a gentleman who has had that as his hobby for 50 full years. He advises me that by far the most fascinating study of all is the life and times of the starfish, usually found only at a minus tide:

By far the most bizarre talent of the starfish, I gather, is its ability to reconstruct or even multiply itself from virtually nothing. Quoth my correspondent: "This is something that's long been known to the commercial clam or oyster men who once foolishly hacked up the starfish and threw them back into the sea, only to learn that this instantly increased their numbers, a fact that still baffles marine scientists."

Pull an arm off a starfish, it seems, and the starfish will promptly grow one in its place, good as new. Even more remarkably, the starfish will often voluntarily part with an arm or two if it is disturbed or threatened and, under man-made stress from electrical shock, will part with all its arms and then, though a complete amputee, will regenerate itself perfectly.

So we are to have lunch — seafood, naturally — and I am to learn more of the creature's mysteries.

Dear Diary: From Santiago, Chile, today, a note from Glen Allen, son of the irreplaceable Ralph Allen, and a copy of the comprehensive tourist guide to the city that he and his wife have written, an absolute delight.

They'd a lot to work with since Santiago is far and away the most interesting, civilized capital in South America. One reason being that Chile, alone in that hemisphere, has kept to the democratic tradition and never tolerated the military goons who are quick to seize power in every other nation, more often than not with weaponry thoughtfully provided by the good old U.S. of A.

Of President Allende's troubled regime the Allens write: "Putting it very simply the political process going on in Chile is a struggle between those who have and those who have-not. Allende's vow is to make things better for the 40 per cent of Chileans who have very little indeed."

If he succeeds — and, again, the U.S. is an implacable enemy — it could be the start to bringing all of Latin America into the twentieth century. One reason it may succeed is that, unlike our own climes, every Chilean has such a sense of national involvement that the Allens describe political discussion as "the national dance".

Dear Diary: That was a revealing remark in one of the interviews with Jack Benny when, asked about the film, "The Godfather", he described it as "a great movie" and added: "There's violence, yes, but no pornography." It does seem true that the day has arrived when murder is acceptable, love-making is dirty.

With a sequel, "Son of Godfather", already in the works it takes no crystal ball to predict that we're in for the greatest blood-bath of cinematic violence in the history of the screen — by public demand.

Some of the reasons for it:

The stock of Gulf and Western Industries, Inc., the company that bank-rolled the picture, increased in worth by $75 million in the month after the film opened. Movie-goers are currently pouring a million dollars a day into the 372 theatres where it is playing. No other film has ever grossed so much in such a short time.

A ton of popcorn was sold the first week at the five New York theatres showing "The Godfather". Souvenir shops are doing a roaring business in Mafia-style fedoras. Godfather Game salesmen predict a million sets will be sold by the year's end. "The Godfather" sound track album is a hit. A million and a half more paperback copies of Mario Puzo's crummy novel are being printed, bringing the total press run to 10,054,000.

It might just be the time to bring out The Mafia Doll, with a bleeding bullet hole through the temple.

Dear Diary: A pleasant, interesting, informative hour today with Dave Barrett in the red-carpeted NDP suite of offices in the legislative buildings, but I came away deeply depressed.

If Barrett's estimate is true, if fewer than one in 10 of our young people can be described as politically aware, if the only hope is to put political studies into the public school curriculum and that no hope at all, whither — as the saying used to go — are we drifting?

So, tonight, reading William Tuohy's report from Athens on the fifth anniversary of the military take-over in Greece, the broken cradle of democracy, it being Tuohy's conclusion that there's been no more than token public resistance to an uncompromising police state because the public is more concerned with a new abundance of television sets, washing machines, beer and automobiles.

It may be no more than a hypothetical question, but can we claim to be any less vulnerable to strong man rule?

Gov't Works Program: 130 Hired, 400 Fired

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

Ottawa gave, and Ottawa hath taken away.

Department of National Defence officials last Thursday announced that 130 students will be employed this summer at CFB Esquimalt.

This week, some of 400 employees at the base will receive that ominous little note with their pay cheques, informing them their services are no longer needed.

By the end of May, an armed forces official said today, the rest of the 400 will have joined the ranks of the jobless.

PROGRAM SEE-SAW

The employment see-saw is the result of the termination of one federal government program and the start of another.

The 400 are those taken on since Nov. 13 under the department of national defence winter works program. The $20 million program allotted $2,976,600 to be spent in British Columbia.

Of this amount, $742,000 went to CFB Esquimalt, another $710,000 to CFB Comox and $818,000 to CFB Chilliwack.

The spokesman said the coming dismissals were necessary because "presumably the money allotted has been expended."

He added that "a very few" of the 400 might be kept on the payroll, but on a "term position" basis, not as permanent civil servants.

SAME JOBS

The jockeying of federal funds and the switch from adult to student employment at the base will have the students carrying out much the same duties as their wintertime predecessors.

To be employed for 12-week periods, the first of the student force is expected to report for duty next week.

Their assignments will include general clerical, administration, engineering, research, driving, food services and manual labor.

Will the 400 being reshuffled onto the labor market be able to find employment?

"Hopefully," he said, "the summer should prove a good one for jobs with the demand for summer services to be met. It is much better to be releasing staff now than in November."

One man, due to be unemployed as of May 1, reports that his search for work, so far, has been frustratingly fruitless.

Hospital Workers To Fight

By
ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Staff

The 10,500-member Hospital Employees Union in British Columbia is expected to move into the political action arena following last week's compulsory arbitration wage decision.

The union's provincial executive, meeting Friday and Saturday in Vancouver, will recommend to the convention at the end of June "that we become politically involved," said Bill Rolfe, HEU director of technical services.

He added that no decision has been made on whether the recommendations will be along partisan or non-partisan party political lines but they "will be contrary to present hospital policies, both labor relations and finance."

BINDING DECISION

The B.C. Mediation Commission, in a binding decision, awarded hospital workers a 6.25 per cent pay raise this year and again next year, with a minimum increase of $30 a month which represents an increase of 7.3 per cent and 6.8 per cent for lowest-paid categories.

The union described the award as "contemptuous of the needs of the working people."

Rolfe said there are no demonstrations planned "or illegal acts" in the wake of the commission's decision.

"The problem is the Mediation Commission Act gives the commission powers higher than the courts," he said.

"The act is not appealable, it is the ultimate authority. Any act you might take would easily be deemed to be unlawful and there would be the ultimate penalties.

'Super Board' Needed

Creation of a super regional board for the economic planning and development of Vancouver Island is advocated by Trevor Davis, a director of the Capital Regional District.

"If we are to create jobs for young people leaving school and university, we have to consider the economic development of this island," he said.

Davis, mayor of North Saanich, made the suggestion to a few directors on a parks tour Saturday and will place his proposal before the regional district board Wednesday.

He envisages a board promoting and developing the recreational and tourist industry and with jurisdiction over industrial planning on the island.

The recreational and tourist industry on the island, he believes, has a far greater potential as a wage earner than the logging and paper industry.

"There will be less and less people employed in logging as more and more sophisticated equipment is developed for the industry," he said. "There should be new approaches to the economic development of the island."

"People come here expecting to see something different only to find that we are repeating their mistakes — losing opportunities which they lost years ago," he said.

He pointed out the island is a geographic entity. The majority of its people never leave the island and those who do seldom venture beyond Vancouver.

It is as a geographic unit that it should be planned and developed, he said.

He noted the government's development policies are geared for the whole province and did not consider the specific needs of people living in a geographic region.

"As for regional districts," he said, "their functions are too limited — their role too passive."

"What I mean by passive is that they spend money for hospitals, parks sewers and the like," he added. "They have no powers to make money to promote and plan industrial development."

"What we need is a super-board actively engaged in the economic development of this island."

CHILD ON LSD 'TRIP'

A six-year-old boy is in good condition in hospital today after what is believed to have been a week-end trip on a heavy accidental dose of LSD.

The boy, identified as Douglas Proulx, 5590 Old West Saanich Road, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital late Saturday afternoon when he became ill at home.

The boy's mother, Dolores Proulx, said Douglas had accidentally take three LSD pills which had been among capsules left at the Proulx home by visiting friends.

The hospital was unable to confirm today that the cause of the boy's illness had been an overdose of the hallucinogenic drug.

Saanich police said their investigation was continuing, but that there was no evidence to date on the substance which had caused the illness.

Mrs. Proulx said, however, that the visiting friends, who were not identified, had left eight pills behind. She said she had found and destroyed five of the capsules, but had been unaware of the other three until Saturday.

The boy had been left with babysitters Saturday while Mrs. Proulx went to buy a bridle for a horse she had just bought for her son.

The babysitters were outside when the boy came out about 4:20 p.m. acting strangely, she said. She returned home shortly before an ambulance arrived.

An ambulance attendant said he found Douglas lying on the floor "kicking and screaming."

"He'd be quiet for a minute, then he would start screaming again," the attendant said.

He did not respond to his own name or to people around him.

The boy remained conscious throughout the trip to hospital, but began vomiting before he reached the emergency ward.

About one-quarter of a capsule of the type commonly found in the Victoria area would be sufficient to send an average adult on a two-hour "trip." The boy apparently had swallowed 12 times that amount.

Armed Convicts On Loose

RCMP detachments along Georgia Strait from Victoria to Alert Bay are on the lookout today for three men described as armed and dangerous who escaped from William Head Correctional Institute.

There have been reports of theft of gasoline and other supplies from several points along the strait.

Police said today the men are believed to be in the Campbell River-Refuge Cove area, where the last theft of gasoline was reported.

The escapees, all serving three-year terms at the prison, are Randolph Bruce Johannsen, 34, convicted of possession of stolen property; James Howard Smith, 22, possession of narcotics for the purpose of trafficking, and Lorne Anthony Lillemoen, 26, breaking, entering and assault.

Computers to Aid of Individual

Computers offer society the chance to counteract those forces which are driving it toward "homogenization and submersion of the individual," New York City's top administrator said here today.

E. S. Savas, first deputy city administrator of New York, warned, however, that to recognize this potential both public and private institutions will have to make significant changes.

"The most critical task is no longer a technical one, but one of tailoring system to people and adapting our institutions to the newly perceived needs of urban society," he said.

Savas was keynote speaker at the second annual conference of the Committee on Municipal and Regional Management (COMRIM), which is being attended by about 120 local government officials from all parts of Canada.

The conference, sponsored by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, is discussing the whole field of urban information systems.

Savas told delegates that while computers too often are programmed "to instill conformity rather than to accept diversity," they also have the ability to acknowledge the individual.

The computer that keeps track of an airline's seat reservations also arranges for a wheelchair to be waiting at the ramp for an invalid, and supplies a kosher meal for an Orthodox Jew.

With the advent of computers in government information, it is now easier to discover and analyze data which identify specialized problem areas, he said.

SPECIFIC REMEDIES

As a result administrators can develop and apply more specific remedies, "instead of resorting to broad-spectrum palliatives."

Citing an example of this, Savas said computers in New York aid crime deterrence because they enable police to be deployed in the right place at the right time, instead of following "ancient" staffing practices.

"In the same way our present firefighting organization can put out fires faster by recognizing the predictability of certain kinds of fires in certain areas at certain times, and therefore responding tactically in a more specialized manner."

Savas said the new sciences such as information-handling technology and systems analysis are useful tools for tackling urban problems, but warned that they do not offer the "policy-level panacea" claimed by some.

"It is important to recognize the limitations of even those powerful tools when applying them to value-laden social systems such as cities, their citizens and their public servants," he said.

Delegates to the conference, which continues Tuesday, were welcomed at a luncheon at the Empress today by Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen.

Guest speaker tonight will be Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

Andras Orders Probe Of Charity for Profit

A Times' story exposing professional promoters who use charity as a come-on gimmick to amass vast profits has resulted in scrutiny of the federal government.

The article, printed Feb. 19, has aroused the concern of Robert Andras, minister of consumer and corporate affairs.

In a letter to MP David Anderson (Lib—Esquimalt-Saanich), Andras said he has asked his department's director of investigation and research to investigate the matter.

As far as he is aware, there is no present or proposed legislation which would deal directly with the problem, Andras said.

"Individual instances might warrant consideration under the provisions of the Criminal Code or the misleading advertising provisions of the Combines Investigation Act," he said.

He adds, "The misleading advertising provisions of the Competition Bill, which is currently being reviewed, may also be applicable to any misrepresentations made in the course of fund raising by professionals."

Andras said, "We will, in any event, have this situation in mind when considering the final form of these provisions."

Marriage Market Increases Pace

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — United States women are divorcing and remarrying now at a faster pace than in the past decade, the U.S. census bureau reported recently.

It said a study showed that since 1960 the annual number of divorces has risen by 80 per cent, while the annual number of remarriages has increased by 40 per cent.

The marriages of about 29 per cent of women now between 27 and 32 years of age will end in divorce, the study said. About 20 per cent of these divorced women will remarry and then have a second divorce.

Divorces averaged slightly over 400,000 annually in the period 1960-62 and have increased steadily over the decade, averaging just over 700,000 annually in the 1969-71 period. They reached a peak of 768,000 for 1971, the study said.

Remarriages after divorce average 287,000 in the 1960-62 period, increasing to 528,000 in the 1969-71 period.

KITCHEN DESK IS TOPS

By PAULINE GRAVES

When building or remodelling and planning your kitchen, consider above all, how you will use it. In addition to placing the work centres close together, streamline the overall design to avoid unnecessary corners or projections.

In the kitchen shown here, by Erna Wine, A.I.D., instead of the desk being built against the wall and projecting into the room, it occupies an alcove the depth of the adjacent ovens. Because the desk front lines up with the wall, there are no desk corners to bang into.

Why have a desk in the kitchen at all, you might ask. Once you have tried this arrangement, you would not ask. On the esthetic side, a desk such as this dresses up the kitchen. Recipe books add color and design to the shelves above, which also display flowers and decoratives.

From a practical standpoint, you eliminate a lot of time searching for records, bills and chequebooks when you keep them in a central location. This allows you to do household paperwork, write letters or whatever while keeping an eye on meal preparations if your desk is in the kitchen.

Garden of the Cross Nearest to Her Heart

The saying that one person will be old and worn out at 60 and another will be years young at 75, was brought forcibly home to me this week. When I met Winifred Harding, who acknowledged that she is well over three-score-years-and-ten but is so active and has so many projects afoot, she acts and talks more like 60.

Among these projects — and the one I would say is nearest to her heart — is a flower border at Cadboro Bay's St. George The Martyr Church. She dug and planted it more than 19 years ago and still tends it regularly, throughout the year.

"It is such a beautiful church," she told me. "I wanted it to have a beautiful garden. Some parishioners said it couldn't be done because the ground was so heavy with couch grass. . ."

The day she turned the first sod, Mrs. Harding thought they might be right. "I've never seen such couch grass!" she says.

However, she persevered and with only a shovel and a wooden wheelbarrow loaned by a man who lived near the church, succeeded in clearing and planting about three feet of ground.

30-Foot Border

Then she decided to try a few feet more. And still another few feet. Until eventually there was a 30-foot border at the foot of the church wall with the massive cross.

That was in the days when Padre William Hills was at St. George's. He loved the flower border and he named it the Garden of the Cross.

First flowers planted in that garden came from Mrs. Harding's home on Forrester Street. For the past 14 years, they have been carried from her present residence on Richmond Road, just opposite Camosun College.

Plants are changed with the seasons. Right now purple wandas, grape hyacinths (Mrs. Harding says they grow in profusion in the Garden of Gethsemane) daffodils, tulips and red currant are in bloom.

A little later there will be petunias and dahlias followed by Michaelmas daisies and other autumn flowers and finally, berried shrubs.

Soon now there will be need of regular watering. It has to be done every second day or the ground dries out.

Mrs. Harding lifts the bulbs each year. She dries, skins, and stores them in bags in her basement until time to set them out again in the fall. Same treatment is given dahlia tubers.

Until a few years back, the Garden of the Cross was a one-woman project. Now, a daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Harding, helps with the work.

"We've just started to do the spring weeding," Winifred said, "then the summer plants must go in . . . it's round-the-year work."

Work perhaps . . . but also a labor of love!

Fresh Flowers

As though this were not enough to keep her busy, in the last 10 years this active senior citizen has regularly kept fresh flowers in Red Cross Lodge at Veterans' Hospital.

Until recently she also went to the hospital every Sunday to assist in getting wheelchair patients to the chapel for service.

And she has "one or two" university students staying in her home each year.

Pointing to small flags that hold prominent places in her living room she says "it's been a little United Nations here . . . my students, so far, have been from Finland, Hungary, Taiwan, Nigeria and India."

On top of all this Mrs. Harding has developed a love of travel in her senior years. She has been to the Holy Land twice with church charter groups, to the Caribbean and early this year, to Hawaii.

"I'd love to do a world tour," she confesses with the shine of adventure in here eyes, "but that must wait awhile."

This, mind you, from one who tells you candidly she is well over three-score-years-and-ten.

Pies Cure Leftover Problem

By MARY MOORE

After I received a letter from a patient reader asking me for ways to use up cold roast beef, I looked in the leftovers file. Its thinness provided a good excuse for buying a roast of beef, to have some held-over for my purpose.

This reader has a family of four so I decided to make four individual meat pies. They arrived piping hot on the dining room table and were devoured by our hungry crowd.

INDIVIDUAL MEAT PIES

Pastry: 1 c. unsifted cake and pastry flour.
3 tbsp. shortening.
3½ tbsp. butter.
2 tbsp. cold water
Filling: 1½ c. cut up cold roast beef (packed).
½ c. diced (½") potatoes.
½ c. chopped celery.
1 tbsp. beef bouillon cordial.

To make pastry, cut the shortening and butter into the flour and salt until size of peas. Drizzle in water, tossing with fork. Pack dough into ball between palms, roll out on floured board into a long strip about 5" wide and cut out four rounds to fit tops of four individual baking dishes. Mine are 4¾" in diameter.

To make the filling, cook together in ½ cup water the potatoes, carrots and celery until barely tender. Drain, saving liquid. Make this liquid up to one cup with additional water and stir the beef cordial into it to make broth.

Divide beef and vegetables evenly into four baking dishes and pour ¼ cup broth over each. Cover with cut out pastry, gashed at centre. If desired, brush tops with beaten small egg diluted with one tablespoon water. Bake at 425 deg. F. for 20 minutes.

NOTE: If you are a family of two, make individual pies as above but bake only two for the current meal. Freezerwrap the two unbaked pies and freeze for future use.

dear abby

And the Recipe?

DEAR ABBY: About that male cook who "took pride" in his cooking and refused to divulge his recipes: Some of the worst cooks I've known were men who "took pride" in their cooking.

I don't claim to be a good cook, but I am probably the best corn popper in the province. Admittedly my prowess is not divinely inspired, but is the conglomeration of instructions from a local 65-year-old lady and a former national champion grower of corn.

I have taught many people how to make delicious popcorn, and I derive as much pleasure out of their enjoyment of it as I do my own. — Bill

DEAR BILL: All right, you pop the corn and I'll pop the question: How about that recipe?

DEAR ABBY: You blew it when you stated that good cooks should share their recipes.

I happen to be the world's best dancer, salesman and amateur chef. And Abby, my love, no one, but NO ONE gets my recipe for spaghetti! (They also beg me for my recipe for sweet and sour sauce, and many others, but my spaghetti sauce is out of this world, and everybody who tastes it wants to know my secret.)

Thus far I have given it to no one. I'm not selfish. I like to cook, and I like to treat my guests to something they can't get anywhere else. Sorry about that. — Bob in Long Beach.

DEAR BOB: You may be the world's best dancer and amateur chef, but you blew it when you said you were the world's best salesman. My husband is! P.S.: I'll put my mother-in-law's sweet and sour sauce against yours any day, but Bob, old boy, about that spaghetti recipe: Are you willing to negotiate?

DEAR ABBY: About that earth-shaking question of whether to give out a recipe or not, why the hassle?

I agree with you, "If someone else enjoys the same thing you enjoy, it in no way diminishes your enjoyment of it!"

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Women Paid 'Not to Think'

About 65 secretaries were told Saturday most of them are only employed to smooth the road for men. They're expected to be a scapegoat, to lie for their bosses when necessary, and above all, not to think.

Audrey Schatz, herself an employer in Vancouver, told a seminar sponsored by Victoria branch, National Secretaries Association (International) the problems faced by a woman in the business world can be traced right back to Eve.

Eve only tempted Adam, Mrs. Schatz said. He succumbed and "like a typical man, he blamed woman" for his troubles.

Then Eve submited and women are still submitting.

The current turmoil for liberation of women will not make them into "pseudo men," she said. It has and will continue to create new value senses that are "good, strong and deeply felt," and in this way paving the way for equal opportunities in position, salary and responsibility.

However, she warned, "Men are accustomed to the privileges of rank and they won't give them up without a struggle."

Mrs. Schatz said women today form about a third of the Canadian work force — 42 per cent of women over the age of 16 are working — but on the average they earn only 58.2 per cent of a man's wage.

In the federal public service, she said, there are 200,000 employees. About 55,000 of them are women but of 600 senior-level public servants, only one is a woman.

Marriage: It's No 'Apocalyptic Event'

By SUSAN RUTTAN
Times Staff

Housewives suffer most from bad marriages, a marriage expert said on a CTV-TV program on Channel 8 Sunday night.

Suicides, alcohol and drugs take their toll of housewives trapped in unhappy marriages, said Dr. Jessie Bernard, who is making a study of marriage.

Dr. Bernard's remarks were part of Marriage, an excellent hour-long study of that difficult, changing, but ever popular state. The program was part of CTV's The Human Journey series.

"We expect marriage to do too much for us," said Dr. Bernard. For 20 years girls are geared up to that "one apocalyptic event" which will make everything right, she said.

The program explored new relationships which give greater freedom and flexibility, demanded by young people today.

"Virginity is no longer a prize" to today's young people, an anonymous female voice on the program said.

More and more couples are living together for a year or two before marrying, or they are experimenting with trial marriage. "For these people divorce is too destructive a thing to take easy chances."

A survey done for the program showed 86 per cent disagreed that couples would start living together before they married and had children. The 1,185 people surveyed were 90 per cent married and 88 per cent over 30.

People surveyed opposed pre-marital sex, the men by 48 per cent and women by 60 per cent. They were more opposed to pre-marital sex for women. Seventy-five per cent thought the husband should make the decisions in the family.

The inability to communicate frankly was chosen by 51.1 per cent as the first reason why marriage fails. Adultery, alcohol, drugs and immaturity followed.

The program said dating was "fun but poor preparation for marriage." Only a handful of couples get marriage instruction, and those that do are told the importance of communicating freely.

Marital conflicts can arise when the husband is from a father-dominated family and the wife from a mother-dominated family. If both are from families in which the mother called the shots, they can have a compatible mother-dominated marriage.

Dr. Bernard quoted a study which showed that marriages with great specialization of roles, husband as provider and wife as homemaker, "tended to become empty shells."

The program covered a lot of ideas and areas in a short period of time, including a brief history of marriage. It was nicely blanaced between the experts' opinions, the rsults of the survey, and glimpses of actual couples. It showed some good film of an American couple talking frankly about their marital problems to a marriage counsellor.

But the program didn't really tell me much that was new. However, if people in the survey are average Canadians, it probably left them with something to think about.

Lo, the Matchmaker Cometh

By SAMI RIZKALLAH

CAIRO (AP) — Wrapped in a long, flowing black dress called a milaya, sometimes with a thin veil over her face and a profusion of gold jewelry dangling from her arms, she wends her way from house to house offering her services.

Her customers, mostly women, warmly welcome her but she pays little attention. Instead, she builds up anticipation by slowly sipping Turkish coffee and talking about everything except the subject she came for.

When she notices her hosts have become impatient, she smiles and opens her handbag to take out some photographs.

Eager Eyes

The pictures are snatched and examined by eager eyes. If they meet acceptance, serious but seemingly casual bargaining starts. If the pictures are a disappointment, then she is asked to try again.

People call her "khatba," which means marriage agent or matchmaker. Her job is to gather information, sometimes with pictures as proof, for persons who want to marry but do not know how or to whom.

In a traditional country such as Egypt, where in almost all rural areas there are no opportunities for young men and girls to meet socially, the khatba still plays an important role.

Mothers of young girls and men seek her out because as a woman she can mingle with the families of both sexes without drawing any objection from suspicious fathers, who in some areas in upper Egypt, kill their daughters if they suspect a girl has met or even permitted herself to be seen by a man.

In these areas, a man has two alternatives if he wants to marry, either he depends entirely on the description provided by the khatba, or he sends a relative to see for him.

But he cannot unveil his bride's face until they are alone after the wedding.

The mothers of the would-be brides, anxious to see their daughters get married, pay the khatba well. The would-be groom pays less but the matchmaker makes up the difference in tips she gets for her visits as encouragement to try harder.

A khatba usuully earns the equivalent of $230 to $345 a month, depending on how rich her customers are. Such income is considered high in Egypt, where the annual per capita income is below $200.

But her days are numbered, thanks to women's lib and the cost of living.

Spoiled

"The business is not as profitable as in the past," complained Um Mohammed, a 38-year-old khatba in Shubra, a Cairo suburb. "The spread of education in such a big city as Cairo spoiled the business, girls and young men now choose by themselves.

"Permitting girls to work side by side with men has reduced our chances. What makes things even more worse is that men now prefer working girls in order to maintain a standard of living similar or near the one they see in movies and television."

But the business still is prosperous in villages and small towns, "where we still have an uncontested monopoly in the marriage market."

In Egypt, a glimpse
At a man is often death
For unmarried girls.
The marriage agent is Often their only go-between.
But trade is falling off,
As liberation catches on.

What Becomes of China Now Kissing Has Stopped?

NEW YORK (UPI) — In China, a nation of 800 million, family planning involves more than just clipping the stork's wings via contraception.

According to a doctor who has studied China's medical and family planning services, control over population growth also involves:

—"Eliminating premarital relations."

"Premarital relations are nonexistent, we were told, because of the political religious mysticism of Maoism," Dr. Jaime Zipper reports in Population Chronicle, a publication of the Population Council.

Dr. Zipper, a professor in the department of physiology and biophysics at the Universidad de Chile, was among a delegation of Chilean medical doctors who spent 13 days in the People's Republic of China.

Once married, a couple is not encouraged to have more than two children. "Having more than two children does not seem to be well-regarded by a community that exerts strict control over individuals by means of small cells distributed throughout the country," Dr. Zipper reported.

So-called "barefoot doctors," young men and young women trained in three- to six-month courses, perform abortions and dispense all types of contraceptives, including the intra-uterine device (IUD). (The barefoot doctors also set fractures and perform appendectomies.)

Dr. Zipper said since 1959 the Chinese have been using IUDS as a method of birth control. Oral contraceptives also are used. They are made in China.

A one-month injectable contraceptive also is used, but Dr. Zipper reported this has not been used for a prolonged period, hence it was not possible to evaluate its effectiveness.

Abortion and sterilization also are birth control methods in China.

"Any woman who requests an induced abortion can obtain it," Dr. Zipper reported. "Vacuum aspiration is the usual method. After an abortion a woman is entitled to 15 days of paid leave from her job."

Surgical sterilization is performed on any woman who has more than two children and requests the operation.

"The Chinese experience in family planning gave me tremendous hope that an integral program performed by paramedical personnel with a specific philosophy behind it might succeed," Dr. Zipper noted.

Authorities at the Population Council, an organization concerned about ways to contain the population explosion worldwide, suggest the use of paramedical personnel to carry out family planning services in countries where doctors are scarce.

Red Tape Tangles Crash Victims

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Mrs. Emma McCarville, 86, and Mrs. Marie Tjernagel have little in common except a year — 1968 — and an accident.

Both women lost their homes and personal belongings when Air National Guard jets on federal missions crashed and burned on their farms. Neither has received compensation for their losses while their claims lay entangled in bureaucratic red tape.

"We've been waiting long enough while we've been living in this chicken house four years," said Mrs. McCarville, who has her son living with her and says the government owes her $86,000 in damages. "I hope we get a settlement, but I don't know if hoping does any good any more."

However, Gov. Robert D. Ray decided the plight of the two families warranted drastic action. Recently, he took an unprecedented step in their behalf and signed an executive order that will ground all planes and other federal vehicles in the Iowa air and army national guard until the claims are paid.

Ray's order, which took effect at noon today, will affect 1,700 national guard vehicles and will effectively immobilize the guard except in the case of an emergency. The governor said the action is a "drastic attempt" to force the hand of the air force and secure just settlement of the two losses.

The government said the operation of the guard vehicle "presents a hazard for private citizens" because of the difficulties encountered by the two Iowa families.

Ray said his order will remain in effect until he is "satisfied" that the claims will be settled.

For Mrs. Tjernagel and her four children, settlement of the $130,000 in damages will require a special act of congress, and enabling legislation has been introduced by the state's two senators and a congressman. Mrs. McCarville and her son have been told by the air force to seek her damages from the state of Wisconsin since a Wisconsin guard jet was involved

New Youth Culture Rejects Work Ethic

VANCOUVER (CP) — Growth in the adult education field is being stunted by disenchantment with higher education and rejection of the North American success syndrome, Leonard Freedman, dean of university extension at the University of California in Los Angeles, said here.

Freedman told a group of adult education specialists at the British Columbia Institute of Technology that the current disillusionment stems from a job shortage for university graduates.

And the traditional value of the work ethic is lost on members of a new youth culture, he said.

"This changing ethic is very real and profoundly important. It means that continuing education along career lines — for upgrading knowledge, for new jobs — will be irrelevant to many in the emerging culture."

Freedman said adult educationists should search for alternatives in new kinds of instruction.

Blood Filtered

VANCOUVER (CP) — The after-effects of open-heart surgery could be lessened by a dacron filter which would remove irregularities from blood recieved from the patient, two Vancouver surgeons told a conference of the International Surgical Group here.

The doctors said irregularities in the dog's blood, the clumping of cells believed dangerous to passage through the body's smaller blood vessels, disappeared when the blood was filtered through the dacron device.

Impeach Peterson Threat

Times News Services

VANCOUVER — The Fred Quilt Committee has threatened to take action to impeach Attorney-General Leslie Peterson if he fails to perform his duties in investigation of Quilt's death.

Committee spokesman Clarence Dennis said after a march Saturday by 75 demonstrators to RCMP headquarters in Vancouver the action will be taken if Peterson's investigation does not lead "to a true inquest."

The committee says the attorney-general's department is reinvestigating old evidence in the death of the 55-year-old Chilcotin Indian and is ignoring new evidence which the committee has found.

Quilt died in Williams Lake hospital last fall after what his relatives said was a beating by two RCMP officers. The committee supports this contention although an inquest jury ruled the death accidental.

Dennis, after meeting Saturday with RCMP officers, says his group is "tired of going on the assumption that there is no brutality" in British Columbia and "tired of assuming we have to bring up documented evidence of every case.

"We've now reached a point that we have to sit down and ask how we're going to deal with such policemen (the two RCMP officers allegedly involved in Quilt's death.)"

"Peterson has legal duties to perform as attorney-general, and we say he's not performing them," Dennis said. "It is on those grounds that he will be impeached.

"Peterson has said he wants to be premier of this province. Well, let's see him be attorney-general first."

A spokesman for the attorney-general said Sunday Peterson was out of town and would not be available for comment before the end of the week.

A Little Care Now Pays Off for Perennials

Herbaceous perennials have been making plenty of progress lately. These are the ones whose foliage stems die back to ground level each fall and put up new growths each spring.

Regardless of spring sunshine or cloud, the delphiniums, peonies, lythrums and lysimachias, the phloxes and the perennial asters start growing underground and make their way above ground.

A little careful cultivation between plants will break up the soil compacted by winter rain. Air will enter the soil with its warming influence and if you know the humus content is still reasonably high you can leave it at that.

In gravelly or well drained soil a top dressing between plants will aid summer retention of moisture. Old manure or well-rotted compost is good for this mulch.

Before spreading, dust the surface with a light dressing of 6-8-6 fertilizer. This will be made into solution by a hose sprinkling and will become slowly available to the plant roots.

The surface mulch prevents baking of soil which these perennials do not like. They all need a long season of growth to produce the quality of bloom and handsome foliage we expect from them.

Perennials that have not been lifted for dividing during the past three years are likely to produce many shoots, but rather thin ones. Phlox, asters, heleniums and delphiniums soon lose their vitality, but if some of the weakest, thinnest stems are removed at soil level those remaining will improve.

Similarly, if plants were divided last fall or early this spring, it will pay to reduce the number of stems to the three strongest.

The surface mulch for newly planted perennials can be delayed until June, and the fertilizer omitted.

We don't usually thin the stems of peonies since these plants have extensive fleshy storage tubers from which to draw nourishment.

Peonies are high on my list of long-season-value, minimum-care plants. They remain undisturbrd for, literally, a lifetime, at least one's lifetime of 50 years or so with one garden.

After the flower buds can be seen, April for the early Paeonia officinalis group and toward the end of May for the later hybrids and lovely singles, a surface dressing of 6-8-6 is well watered in, then covered with the mulch of old compost or old manure.

SOLUTION TUESDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

If one aspires to be a real good bridge player, it is, of course, quite useful to study books dealing with the play of the cards. Possibly the major advantage of such study is that the student becomes familiar with many standard recurring types of situations. Thus, when he is confronted with one of them at the table, he is spared the trouble and the (limited) time of working it out.

In today's deal, our South declarer encountered one of these book plays. He handled it correctly. The hand came up in a rubber-bridge game.

Neither side vulnerable. North deals.

♡ K J 10 4
◇ Q 10 9 3

WEST
♠ K J 9 7 2
♡ 7 3
◇ K 8
♣ J 9 4 2

EAST
♠ Q 4
♡ 8 6 5 2
◇ 6 4 2

SOUTH
♡ A Q 9
◇ A J 7 5
♣ K 3

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Seven of ♠.

With West opening the spade seven, I imagine that many players would have followed suit with dummy's five. East would have won this trick with the queen, after which he would have returned the spade four, driving out dummy's ace.

The queen of diamonds would then be led, and the finesse taken. It would lose to West's king. West would now cash three spade tricks, thereby inflicting a one-trick set on declarer.

Our South declarer played the hand differently. He won the opening lead with dummy's ace of spades, after which he led the queen of diamonds and took the finesse, losing to West's king. South, at this point, had the 10-8-6 of spades remaining.

If West now cashed the king of spades, he would fell his partner's queen. And South, with the doubleton 10-8 of spades still in his hand, would make it impossible for West to now cash any more than his jack of spades. If West, after winning his diamond king, led a low spade to East's queen, East, upon winning the trick, would have no spade left to play back to West. South would now have his contract with an overtrick: one spade, four hearts, three diamonds, and two clubs.

The play of dummy's spade ace at trick one was correct. If the seven outstanding spades were divided 4-3, South would lose just three spade tricks whether he took his ace or didn't. His "worry" should have been that West had five spades.

If the latter did exist, then East had either the K-x, the Q-x, or the J-x, since West would not have led the spade seven from a holding of K-Q-J-7-x. Hence, by playing the ace at trick one, South knew that he had "blocked" the spade suit, leaving East with the singleton king, the singleton queen, or the singleton jack.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

The children had been checking their money on the table. Suddenly Jill grabbed a couple of dimes from her brother's little hoard. "You've still got eighty cents more than me," she told him. "Don't be greedy."

"Greedy!" Jack laughed. "If I had taken twenty cents from you instead, I would have had twice as much as you."

How much did Jill have before she grabbed?

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me: thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

Care Prevents Robberies

It is a good idea for everyone to know some basic precautions against burglaries. In the splendid little magazine Today's Health, published by the American Medical Association, there was a recent article on avoiding robbers.

For example, if you are moving into a new house or apartment, or if you lose your door keys, have all the locks changed immediately. Also, never give your keys to deliverymen or maintenance people.

It is very important to have locks that cannot be opened easily. Any beginning burglar knows how to open an ordinary lock with a celluloid strip or credit card. You should have the type of lock in which there is a bar that drops down. In so many cases, the front door may be well protected with good locks, but the back door is so poorly made that any thief worth his salt can enter in a minute. Also, it is useless to have a door locked if it is made of glass. Also, glass windows on a porch can easily be broken and the thief can reach inside and open the door. Some times it helps to have a chain lock on a door. I suspect, in some cases, a hand can reach in and unlock the chain.

Every door that opens onto the outside of a house or apartment should have a "peephole," so that when someone knocks, the person inside can look out and see who is there. Many unpleasant things happen when a person opens the door without knowing who is standing outside.

I will never forget my amazement when I read a book on the Boston Strangler. During the time that the strangler was loose in Boston, the police were cautioning everyone not to open their doors to strangers. But a great many women continued to allow strangers into their apartmsnts, thus risking their lives. Any woman reading the story of the Boston Strangler will think twice before she opens her door.

It is advisable to keep "stranded motorists" outside while you phone for help for them.

People should always keep doors well locked, because there are so many people roaming around looking for a door which has not been well locked. When coming home ring your door bell and wait a bit, so that if there is a thief inside, he can get out the back door. Also, if there is any sign that someone is in your house or apartment when you enter it, the safest thing is to leave immediately, and give him a chance to escape.

I have often thought of how I could lose my life if I entered my apartment and found a thief ransacking my attache case, looking for drugs. In his excitement, he could kill me.

People who leave on vacation, for even a few days, should have a little apparatus which turns the lights on and off at intervals at night.

Provinces Join In Mutual Pact

EDMONTON (CP) — Co-operation between the governments of British Columbia and Alberta in areas of common interest was agreed upon when cabinet ministers from the two western provinces met here, it was announced today.

The meeting Saturday to discuss common interests concerning future management of natural resources and environmental protection was attended by Ray Williston, B.C. minister of lands, forests and water resources, and Bill Yurko, Alberta environment minister, and Allan Warrack, Alberta lands and forest minister.

The ministers agreed that a ministerial committee of three from each province should meet at least once a year to discuss current and long-term matters as a means of ensuring continuity and action.

Vietnam Protest

Several counter-demonstrators heckled the marchers along the route from the centre of the city to a church building. However, police kept the groups apart.

OLD TOWN DESIGN CONTEST PLANNED

Victoria citizens and architects from across Canada will join forces June 1 to play in a "design game" and come up with ways of redeveloping the city's old town.

The scheme is being put together by Victoria architect Roger Smeeth for the annual convention of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada beginning June 1.

Smeeth says six teams comprising architects and interested citizens will compete in the McPherson Playhouse, and their work will be judged by a panel of experts, including developers, politicians and civil servants.

Smeeth is looking for an audience to witness the architectural games. The whole event will begin with a "street party" the night before where the teams will plan tactics. Before all this can begin, Smeeth says, an association of people interested in the city's old town must be formed.

The whole point of the exercise will be to urge citizens to become involved in urban development.

Gov't to Discuss Town's Future

The future of the Ocean Falls site will be discussed at a May 2 meeting of government members and company officials, Minister-without-Portfolio Isabel Dawson said today.

In a press release, Mrs. Dawson said she hoped the meeting would stimulate ideas and suggestion, "which might pave the way to a future for Ocean Falls."

Ocean Falls, a town entirely run by Crown Zellerbach for its papermill there, is scheduled to be closed down next March.

Pair Pulled From Car

DUNCAN — A Lake Cowichan man is in critical condition and a Victoria girl is in satisfactory condition today after they were trapped in the car Saturday morning when it ran into a ditch and burst into flames.

Duncan RCMP said today that driver David James Scott, 19, was rushed to the Royal Jubilee Hospital with critical head injuries after he was rescued from the small burning vehicle by the Cowichan Bay volunteer fire department. Heather Rhodes, 16, is in hospital here with a broken leg and facial lacerations.

Two other passengers, Martin Burkart, 18, of 1017 King George Terrace, Victoria, and Paul Perry, 17, of 848 Esquimalt Road, also of Victoria, escaped injury when the car crashed into a ditch about 4:25 a.m. three miles south of Duncan on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Brandt Rule Battered

BONN (AP) — Battered by two political setbacks, Chancellor Willy Brandt's rule was threatened today by conservatives who hinted they might let his treaties with Moscow and Warsaw go through while hitting Brandt on domestic issues.

Brandt, leader of the Social Democrats, lost an important state election Sunday and the same night a government supporter in parliament defected to the Christian Democrats. This reduced Brandt's strength in the lower house, the Bundestag, to 249 Socialists and members of the small Free Democratic party, the minimum needed by his coalition government to stay in power.

Market Vote Light

PARIS (AP) — Frenchmen voting in a referendum Sunday welcomed Britain into the Common Market, but the reduced turnout raised opposition hopes of cutting sharply into the Gaullist majority in the National Assembly elections next year.

Interior Minister Raymond Marcellin announced that 39.64 per cent of the 29,312,637 registered voters stayed away from the polls Sunday, 36.17 per cent favored the enlargement of the West European trade bloc, 17.12 per cent voted no, and 7.07 per cent cast blank ballots.

The yes-no vote was 10,601,645 to 5,020,683.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

Judge F. S. Green also fined him $100 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident. His licence was suspended for 30 days. He had pleaded guilty to the charges.

In traffic court, David Alexander Lamont, 33, of 109 Valiant was fined $400 for impaired driving and $200 for refusing to take a breath-analysis test on April 15. He was also given a partial four-month driving ban.

Rodney Benson, 23, of 903 Esquimalt, was fined $400 and given a three-month driving ban on a charge of impaired driving.

Army to Split

EDMONTON (CP) — The Salvation Army has withdrawn from the city's United Community Fund and for the first time in 16 years will campaign for funds on its own this May.

R. W. Chapman, chairman of the Army's advisory board and Red Shield appeal, said a $750,000 objective has been set. The organization will seek $430,000 for capital costs, $290,000 for operating costs and $30,000 to cover the cost of the campaign.

THE BEGINNING OF THE PINTO'S VALUE

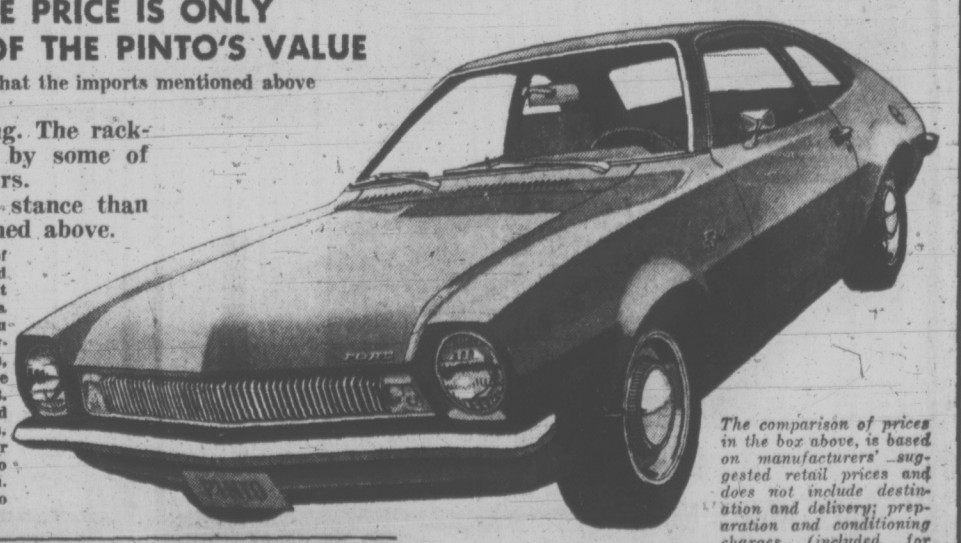
- Rack-and-pinion steering. The rack-and-pinion system is used by some of the world's great racing cars.
- Pinto also has a wider stance than any of the imports mentioned above.

We've taken some features that a lot of people seem to like with their Pinto, and we've put them together in a group that offers particular value. Priced as a group for only one hundred dollars you can now order front disc brakes, body-side molding, whitewalls, wheel covers, and a rear window defroster on the 2-door sedan. Pinto will then cost $2393. And that means Pinto will still be priced below all three of the leading imports. Of course, if you decide not to order this group of features, the price for Pinto is then $2293. The choice is up to you. You see, with Pinto, you don't have to pay for what you might not want.



The comparison of prices in the box above, is based on manufacturers' suggested retail prices and does not include destination and delivery; preparation and conditioning charges (included for Datsun 510); license and provincial tax.

Sticks and Bones Best

NEW YORK (AP) — Sticks and Bones and Two Gentlemen of Verona, Broadway shows written by newcomers, swept top honors for an exciting finale to the 26th annual Tony Awards ceremony.

The top drama was Sticks and Bones, written by 31-year-old Vietnam veteran David Rabe. Two Gentlemen, written by John Guare and Mel Shapiro, was named the best musical.

The top acting awards for musical performance presented during Sunday night's ceremony went to Alexis Smith of Follies and Phil Silvers, who arrived just two weeks ago in a revival of A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum.

The role of Miss Smith, a native of Penticton, in Follies was the highlight of her career in which she has played mostly in second-rate films. But her performance in Follies electrified the critics and the show is one of the most successful now running.

WIN MUSICAL AWARDS

Supporting musical awards went to Larry Blyden, also in Forum, and to Linda Hopkins, who appeared in Inner City, which closed three months ago.

Miss Hopkins was the only Negro to win an award this year even though there were several blacks nominated in many categories.

In the drama supporting categories the winners were Vincent Gardenia of The Prisoner of Second Avenue and Elizabeth Wilson of Sticks and Bones.

The elaborate presentation rites at the Broadway Theatre were telecast over the ABC network and, as usual, ran over the planned two-hour scheduling, this time by 15 minutes.

Sticks and Bones is the story of a blinded soldier returning home from the war to his family. Two Gentlemen is a lighthearted romp through the Shakespeare comedy. It moves to rock and Latin American beats and blues type jazz. Guare and Shapiro shared a Tony for their book.

FOLLIES WINS 7

Follies, a musical that opened a year ago but was eligible for consideration now under Tony deadline regulations, won seven silver medallions in the 18 competitive categories, the most for a single production.

By coincidence the ceremonies took place on the 408th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth. His posthumous assist to 1972 creativity was the only overseas tinge amid all the presentations. For the first time in many years all the awards were won by Americans.

Special awards for distinguished accomplishment through long careers were represented to musical star Ethel Merman and composer Richard Rodgers, both of whom participated in quick-tempo reprises of conspicuous triumphs. Harold Prince got a medallion citation on behalf of Fiddler on the Roof, which on June 17 becomes the longest running show in Broadway history.

U.S. Surveying Tanker Route Past Victoria

The United States is surveying a deep-draught channel which could be used for supertankers en route to and from Cherry Point, Wash.

The survey is probing for hazards in waters up to a depth of 90 feet — deep enough to accommodate supertankers of about 500,000 tons.

Beginning near Cherry Point, where an oil refinery is being built by Atlantic Richfield Co. primarily to process oil brought by tanker from Alaska's North Slope, the survey extends about 60 miles from the Strait of Juan de Fuca through Rosario Strait.

Based in Seattle, she comes under the U.S. commerce department's national oceanic and atmospheric administration and is commanded by Cmdr. Gerald Saladin of Fort Mitchell, Ky.

Although the channel is being surveyed and the refinery built, the U.S. government has yet to give approval for a controversial pipeline across Alaska which would supply the tankers.

The Canadian federal government and conservationists in both countries have protested the carrying of oil through the narrow straits to Cherry Point, fearing the environmental disaster that could come from a collision or ther marine incidents.

An official said Sunday launches are being used to drag wires through the water to a depth of 90 feet, seeking out wrecks, shoals, rock outcroppings and other navigational hazards.

He said the largest tankers afloat, of 326,000 deadweight tons, have a 79-foot draught but "still larger tankers are reported under consideration." These, he added, would be 492,000 deadweight tons and draw 85 feet.

Two wrecks are reported in the survey area, lying in 168 feet of water. They will be investigated, their positions checked, as well as the depth of water over them.

In Vancouver Saturday a B.C. MP said that Canada has nothing to gain and the most to lose if the United States goes ahead with a proposed pipeline-tanker route to bring oil south from Alaska.

Paul St. Pierre (L—Coast Capilano) told the Canadian Owners and Pilots Association there are strong indications the U.S. will proceed with plans for a pipeline across Alaska to Valdez Island, and a tanker route to the Cherry Point refinery.

"We will get no benefits from the shipments because we are not participating in any sense," St. Pierre said. "Yet in the case of a catastrophic oil spill, ours is the vulnerable coast which can be grievously damaged."

He said normal tidal patterns would ensure that the B.C. coast suffered more than U.S. shores.

Chabot Enters Battle

Labor Minister James Chabot was to meet both sides in British Columbia's construction industry dispute this afternoon in what he called "a last-ditch effort to avert a shutdown".

He said negotiations between building unions and Construction Labor Relations Association, bargaining agent for 840 contractors, broke down on the weekend.

Even as he spoke, the plumbers union went on strike against five contractors in the Vancouver area, in addition to the three struck last week. But no pickets were immediately established at job sites.

CLRA responded at mid-morning by serving the legally-required 72-hour lockout notice against 17 unions, following last week's vote in favor of such action by contractors. After Thursday morning, CLRA will be in a legal position to implement a lockout.

The contractors association said lockout notice was posted because of the "escalation of strike action by the plumbers union".

"It appears that there'll be a shutdown by lockout or by strike early this week and I'm attempting to avert that," Chabot said in Victoria this morning before going to the Vancouver meeting with both sides.

"My feeling is that neither side wants a shutdown but it appears to be heading that way."

MEDIATOR?

Asked if he is considering the appointment of a man of the stature of Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz as a special mediator, he said this is "premature" at this stage.

Ed Fay, secretary of the B.C. and Yukon Building and Construction Trades Council, said the weekend talks resulted in no progress and all unions have rejected CLRA's first package offer delivered Friday.

This included an increase of 88 cents an hour over two years, of which 80 cents would be for wages, or about 6.5 per cent per year, he said.

Existing hourly wages range from $4.79 for laborers to $6.80 for electrical workers. Carpenters earn $6.06 an hour and plumbers $6.70.

Fay also said the CLRA offer included relaxation of a number of so-called restrictive or mutual support clauses in contracts.

He said the news media has

FATAL MAULING was the result of this man's attempt to talk to polar bears after jumping into their pen at the South Perth Zoo, Australia. An eyewitness said the man dived into the bears' pool, swam to the platform where they were sitting, and began talking to them. Attendants threw burning rags into the enclosure to distract the bears while they hauled him out, but were too late.

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED: APOLLO AIMS FOR HOME

HOUSTON (CP) — The Apollo 16 spacecraft, heavily laden with a record haul of 245 pounds of lunar rocks and soil, swung around the moon today as three tired but happy astronauts set their sights for earth.

Mission commander John Young, his fellow moon explorer Charles Duke and command spacecraft pilot Ken Mattingly will jettison the battered lunar lander Orion and fire up the main engine of their mother ship Casper at 6:16 p.m. B.C. time to leave lunar orbit and begin the 66-hour, 240,000-mile voyage to earth.

The cruise back to earth in Casper, man's weightiest cargo spaceship to ply the lunar route — will end Thursday with splashdown in the Pacific.

The mission, which began eight days ago at Cape Kennedy, set records for lunar exploration. Young and Duke bagged more rock specimens than any scientist dared hope for, travelled farther (16.9 miles) than any previous expedition, and spent slightly more than 20 hours driving and laboring among the craters, crags and boulders of the Descartes highlands.

All told, the two men were on the moon for a total of 71 hours two minutes compared with the 66 hours 55 minutes of last summer's Apollo 15 mission of David Scott and James Irwin.

Scientists, doctors and mission controllers were ecstatic over the achievements of the Apollo crew.

The three return with perhaps the oldest and most significant samples yet collected on the lunar surface. Locked inside are secrets of how the moon was born more than four billion years ago.

$ MILLIONS IN CUTS

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Price Commission will order hundreds of millions of dollars in price rollbacks and customer refunds in the next few weeks.

Chairman C. Jackson Grayson said today he hopes the announcement will help rally public opinion behind controls.

He called it "a major break-through, a major landmark" in the U.S. "war on inflation."

If customers who have been overcharged can be found, firms will be ordered to make refunds. No companies were named.

U.K. TRAINMEN DEFY COURT

LONDON (CP) — Militant train drivers stranded thousands of British commuters today by defying a court order, the pleas of their own union leaders and an ultimatum from their bosses to resume normal work.

Nightmare conditions prevailed on the southern region, the main service for London's commuter belt, as stations closed and hundreds of trains were delayed or cancelled.

NEWS BRIEFS

CAIRO (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat accused the United States today of "deception and cheating" in its Middle East policy and of trying to drive a wedge between Egypt and Russia.

Hanoi Assault Shatters S. Viet Lines

Times News Services

SAIGON — Spearheaded by tanks, a North Vietnam division smashed the northern defences of Kontum City in the central highlands today, driving South Vietnamese forces as far as 15 miles back.

But despite this major advance by the north, hundreds of South Vietnamese paratroops were being pulled out of Kontum province to shore up defences in the Saigon region.

New air and sea battles erupted deep inside North Vietnam, in the Gulf of Tonkin and the Gulf of Siam.

The highlands defence line of Tan Canh and Dak To 25 miles north of Kontum crumbled under the Communist onslaught and a new line was being formed 10 miles north of the provincial capital, said to be the ultimate objective in the 26-day Vietnamese offensive.

PULLBACK

Not since the opening day of the offensive, when thousands of North Vietnamese troops stormed across the demilitarized zone to attack Quang Tri province, have they made such advances.

A radio message was sent out to the scattered and badly battered South Vietnames 22nd Infantry Divsion, which had its forward command post at Tan Canh and a regimental command post at Dak To, to pull back to a new defensive line at Vo Dinh on Highway 14. This is about 15 miles south of Tan Canh and about 10 miles north of Kontum.

The North Vietnamese attack in the highlands developed shortly after midnight Sunday night when the tank column rolled down Highway 14, which connects Pleiku, Kontum, Dak To and Tan Canh.

The South Vietnames tried to rush reinforcements to Tan Canh from the north and south, but the North Vietnamese blew up three sections of Highway 14 along a seven-mile stretch from Tan Canh southward to Fire Base Vo Binh.

IRA Rebels Hold Catholic Sectors

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen openly manned sandbagged fortifications around Roman Catholic areas of Londonderry today in anticipation of a British Army attempt to oust them from the strongholds.

In continuing violence Northern Ireland gunmen wounded a policeman, a civilian and a soldier in Londonderry, another soldier in Belfast and fought a 30-minute battle with militia forces troops along the Irish Republic border.

The gunmen manned the emplacements with submachine-guns and other weapons. They stopped and questioned all motorists and pedestrians entering the districts. The emplacements bristled with barbed wire and the green, white and orange tricolor of the Irish Republic.

Spokesman for the Irish Republican Army's provisional and official wings said the emplacements were erected on grounds that a full-scale invasion by the British Army to oust the IRA from the areas was imminent.

William Whitelaw, Northern Ireland's new secretary of state, last week ruled out an outright onslaught by the army into the areas on grounds that it would cost the lives of innocent civilians.

No U.S. Family Fully Sane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing U.S. government statistics, a National Institute of Mental Health psychologist said today there is growing evidence that "almost no family" in the United States is entirely free of mental disorders.

Dr. David Rosenthal suggested that the incidence of mental disorders may figure prominently among the causes of the country's social turbulence and disorders, including crime and racial unrest.

Based on a 1967 institute survey, which Rosenthal said contains the latest figures, he concluded possibly 60 million Americans are borderline schizophrenics or exhibit other deviant mental behavior in the schizophrenic category.

"Indeed," Rosenthal said in a report to the National Academy of Sciences, "it may very well be that the so-called 'normal' person, with respect to mental health, does not represent a norm at all, but rather an ideal — relatively rare — that most of us would like to achieve."

Rosenthal said there are more than 1.75 million schizophrenic or potentially schizophrenic persons walking the streets besides at least 500,000 in hospitals in the U.S. Schizophrenia, one of the major mental illnesses, includes a tendency to withdraw from reality and often involves hallucinations and delusions.

In his report, Rosenthal said there's growing evidence that hereditary factors may play a role in causing at least some forms of mental illness.

Rosenthal said "the magnitude and gravity of the mental illness problem ... has ... relevance to the psychological turbulence rampant in an American society that is confused, divided, concerned about its future, and casting about for workable solutions to critical problems."

Rosenthal said other statistics from the survey indicate:

—90,000 Americans were taken to hospital in 1967 for depression and "many times more never found their way to a hospital."

—On suicide: "At least once every minute someone in the United States tried to kill himself, and once every 24 minutes the attempt was successful."

—"There are nine million people in the United States with a serious drinking problem, or about one of every 22 persons, whose annual costs to the nation include $10 million, half of all arrests, and 25,000 highway deaths. ... An estimated 200,000 new cases develop each year."

Finally, said Rosenthal, psychoneurosis — emotional illness short of insanity — is "so prevalent in the population that it is almost impossible to estimate."

MURDER CHARGE LAID

NANAIMO — A 30-year-old man was charged with murder in provincial court today following a Saturday night shooting spree which left a 16-year-old girl dead and three other young persons injured.

Michael McCormick of Kelsey Bay was remanded without plea for preliminary hearing of the non-capital charge.

Sixteen-year-old Brenda Eileen Daniluk of Nanaimo died in hospital Sunday after being shot twice in the head early Saturday in a fracus in a Nanaimo restaurant.

She died 35 hours after a man entered the restaurant and emptied a .22-calibre pistol around the room, injuring four persons including Miss Daniluk.

Wayne Barber, 19, of Stouffville, Ont., and Rick Coulton, 24, of Nanaimo, are in fair condition in Victoria hospital. Barber suffered a head wound and Coulton was struck in the shoulder.

Kathy Sweezy, 20, of Nanaimo was treated for a slight head wound and released from hospital later Saturday.

Nanaimo RCMP said a man had been drinking in the restaurant until about half an hour before the shooting erupted. He left and returned at 2 a.m. with the pistol.

Fortune Goes to the Dogs

NEWPORT, Ky. — Eva Tranter loved dogs so much she bequeathed her estate of $400,000 to the Campbell Country Animal Protective Association. To her relatives, she left a few items including lamps, dolls and wigs. She died Sept. 2, 1970, at the age of 85.

Lawyer Paul Steer, who drew up the will, confirmed Miss Tranter left the money for the association. The group plans to meet Wednesday to discuss using the money for an addition to the animal shelter.

The celebrants sang Nazi battle songs, watched a 1938 movie on Hitler's leadership of Germany, and heard speeches calling on "white peoples of the world" to unite against blacks and Jews.

Hitler was born in Austria April 23, 1889.

BERKHAMSTED, England — Graham Andrews felt his responsibility as best man keenly and was determined that bridegroom Bob Brackley should be at the ceremony in time. So he chained him to the railings outside the marriage registry office 14 hours before he was to get married.

Graham then threw away the key and went home. Eventually the fire department came and freed the constrained groom. But Bob wasn't late for the wedding — he married 20-year-old Jill Ross on time.

PRETORIA — Nine-year-old Adriaan Grobler, who fell four storeys from an apartment in Rietfontein near this South African city, not only lived but jumped up and ran two blocks before fainting.

Doctors later said he had broken his arm in two places, but his condition was described as satisfactory.

Kirill Florensky, with other Soviet scientists, has worked out the total amount of cosmic dust that has fallen on the earth from outer space. Particles of earth are similarly given off into space but on balance Florensky believes that earth is the winner.

TOKYO — Shoichi Yokoi, the Japanese army sergeant who hid in Guam's jungles for 26 years rather than surrender, mingled with his countrymen in the streets of Tokyo at the weekend for the first time in more than three decades.

Yokoi has been recuperating in hospital since he returned from Guam in February.

TORONTO — Celia Franca, artistic director of the National Ballet of Canada, has accepted an invitation to serve on the jury of the second Moscow international ballet competition in June, 1973.

A spokesman for the company said it is the first time a representative from Canada has been asked to serve as a jury member at any ballet competition in the Soviet Union.

BRIGHTON, England — The post office has apologized to Mrs. Julia Roff for her $2,604 quarterly telephone bill. A spokesman said she was accidently overcharged by 40,000 call units.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — A former Sea World secretary, who was injured last year while riding Shamu the killer whale, has filed a $2 million damage suit.

Anne Eckis, 23, was clad in a bikini when she slipped off Shamu while posing for publicity pictures. The whale gripped her leg and held her for two minutes before attendants could free her.

LAWNDALE, Calif. — Sheriff's deputies thought they had a murder on their hands when parts of a human body, wrapped in plastic, were found on a freeway ramp.

However, investigation disclosed the package had fallen off a truck delivering specimens from a research centre in Louisiana to the Los Angeles County Medical Centre for health sciences.

SNOOPERS BEATEN

CALGARY (CP) — Imperial Oil Ltd. has improved its security with the installation of a "beat-the-snoopers" communication system to transmit data from five drilling rigs in the Mackenzie Delta to Edmonton.

"Our geological people had a requirement to get data out of the Arctic and get it out with reasonable security," said an Imperial spokesman.

"Previously, they had to use telephone channels to which the public had access and this meant trasmitting everything in code."

The system, installed by Canadian National Telecommunications, transmits both voice and data information more than 2,000 miles from the remote wellsites to Edmonton.

U.S. Surveying Tanker Route Past Victoria

The United States is surveying a deep-draught channel which could be used for supertankers en route to and from Cherry Point, Wash.

The survey is probing for hazards in waters up to a depth of 90 feet — deep enough to accommodate supertankers of about 500,000 tons.

Beginning near Cherry Point, where an oil refinery is being built by Atlantic Richfield Co. primarily to process oil brought by tanker from Alaska's North Slope, the survey extends about 60 miles from the Strait of Juan de Fuca through Rosario Strait.

Based in Seattle, she comes under the U.S. commerce department's national oceanic and atmospheric administration and is commanded by Cmdr. Gerald Saladin of Fort Mitchell, Ky.

Although the channel is being surveyed and the refinery built, the U.S. government has yet to give approval for a controversial pipeline across Alaska which would supply the tankers.

The Canadian federal government and conservationists in both countries have protested the carrying of oil through the narrow straits to Cherry Point, fearing the environmental disaster that could come from a collision or ther marine incidents.

An official said Sunday launches are being used to drag wires through the water to a depth of 90 feet, seeking out wrecks, shoals, rock outcroppings and other navigational hazards.

He said the largest tankers afloat, of 326,000 deadweight tons, have a 79-foot draught but "still larger tankers are reported under consideration." These, he added, would be 492,000 deadweight tons and draw 85 feet.

Two wrecks are reported in the survey area, lying in 168 feet of water. They will be investigated, their positions checked, as well as the depth of water over them.

In Vancouver Saturday a B.C. MP said that Canada has nothing to gain and the most to lose if the United States goes ahead with a proposed pipeline-tanker route to bring oil south from Alaska.

Paul St. Pierre (L—Coast Capilano) told the Canadian Owners and Pilots Association there are strong indications the U.S. will proceed with plans for a pipeline across Alaska to Valdez Island, and a tanker route to the Cherry Point refinery.

"We will get no benefits from the shipments because we are not participating in any sense," St. Pierre said. "Yet in the case of a catastrophic oil spill, ours is the vulnerable coast which can be grievously damaged."

He said normal tidal patterns would ensure that the B.C. coast suffered more than U.S. shores.

Chabot Enters Battle

Labor Minister James Chabot was to meet both sides in British Columbia's construction industry dispute this afternoon in what he called "a last-ditch effort to avert a shutdown."

He said negotiations between building unions and Construction Labor Relations Association, bargaining agent for 840 contractors, broke down on the weekend.

Even as he spoke, the plumbers union went on strike against five contractors in the Vancouver area, in addition to the three struck last week. But no pickets were immediately established at job sites.

CLRA responded at midmorning by serving the legally-required 72-hour lockout notice against 17 unions, following last week's vote in favor of such action by contractors. After Thursday's morning, CLRA will be in a legal position to implement a lockout.

The contractors association said lockout notice was posted because of the "escalation of strike action by the plumbers union".

"It appears that there'll be a shutdown by lockout or by strike early this week and I'm attempting to avert that," Chabot said in Victoria this morning before going to the Vancouver meeting with both sides.

"My feeling is that neither side wants a shutdown but it appears to be heading that way."

MEDIATOR?

Asked if he is considering the appointment of a man of the stature of Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz as a special mediator, he said this is "premature" at this stage.

Ed Fay, secretary of the B.C. and Yukon Building and Construction Trades Council, said the weekend talks resulted in no progress and all unions have rejected CLRA's first package offer delivered Friday.

This included an increase of 88 cents an hour over two years, of which 80 cents would be for wages, or about 6.5 per cent per year, he said.

Existing hourly wages range from $4.79 for laborers to $6.80 for electrical workers. Carpenters earn $6.06 an hour and plumbers $6.70.

Fay also said the CLRA offer included relaxation of a number of so-called restrictive or mutual support clauses in contracts.

He said the news media has

FATAL MAULING was the result of this man's attempt to talk to polar bears after jumping into their pen at the South Perth Zoo, Australia. An eyewitness said the man dived into the bears' pool, swam to the platform where they were sitting, and began talking to them. Attendants threw burning rags into the enclosure to distract the bears while they hauled him out, but were too late.

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED: APOLLO AIMS FOR HOME

HOUSTON (CP) — The Apollo 16 spacecraft, heavily laden with a record haul of 245 pounds of lunar rocks and soil, swung around the moon today as three tired but happy astronauts set their sights for earth.

Mission commander John Young, his fellow moon explorer Charles Duke and command spacecraft pilot Ken Mattingly will jettison the battered lunar lander Orion and fire up the main engine of their mother ship Casper at 6:16 p.m. B.C. time to leave lunar orbit and begin the 66-hour, 240,000-mile voyage to earth.

The cruise back to earth in Casper, man's weightiest cargo spaceship to ply the lunar route — will end Thursday with splashdown in the Pacific.

The mission, which began eight days ago at Cape Kennedy, set records for lunar exploration. Young and Duke bagged more rock specimens than any scientist dared hope for, travelled farther (16.9 miles) than any previous expedition, and spent slightly more than 20 hours driving and laboring among the craters, crags and boulders of the Descartes highlands.

All told, the two men were on the moon for a total of 71 hours two minutes compared with the 66 hours 55 minutes of last summer's Apollo 15 mission of David Scott and James Irwin.

Scientists, doctors and mission controllers were ecstatic over the achievements of the Apollo crew.

The three return with perhaps the oldest and most significant samples yet collected on the lunar surface. Locked inside are secrets of how the moon was born more than four billion years ago.

$ MILLIONS IN CUTS

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Price Commission will order hundreds of millions of dollars in price rollbacks and customer refunds in the next few weeks.

Chairman C. Jackson Grayson said today he hopes the announcement will help rally public opinion behind controls.

He called it "a major break-through, a major landmark" in the U.S. "war on inflation."

If customers who have been overcharged can be found, firms will be ordered to make refunds. No companies were named.

U.K. TRAINMEN DEFY COURT

LONDON (CP) — Militant train drivers stranded thousands of British commuters today by defying a court order, the pleas of their own union leaders and an ultimatum from their boss to resume normal work.

Nightmare conditions prevailed on the southern region, the main service for London's commuter belt, as stations closed and hundreds of trains were delayed or cancelled.

Hanoi Assault Shatters S. Viet Lines

Times News Services

SAIGON — Spearheaded by tanks, a North Vietnam division smashed the northern defences of Kontum City in the central highlands today, driving South Vietnamese forces as far as 15 miles back.

But despite this major advance by the north, hundreds of South Vietnamese paratroops were being pulled out of Kontum province to shore up defences in the Saigon region.

New air and sea battles erupted deep inside North Vietnam, in the Gulf of Tonkin and the Gulf of Siam.

The highlands defence line of Tan Canh and Dak To 25 miles north of Kontum crumbled under the Communist onslaught and a new line was being formed 10 miles north of the provincial capital, said to be the ultimate objective in the 26-day Vietnamese offensive.

PULLBACK

Not since the opening day of the offensive, when thousands of North Vietnamese troops stormed across the demilitarized zone to attack Quang Tri province, have they made such advances.

A radio message was sent out to the scattered and badly battered South Vietnames 22nd Infantry Divsion, which had its forward command post at Tan Canh and a regimental command post at Dak To, to pull back to a new defensive line at Vo Dinh on Highway 14. This is about 15 miles south of Tan Canh and about 10 miles north of Kontum.

The North Vietnamese attack in the highlands developed shortly after midnight Sunday night when the tank column rolled down Highway 14, which connects Pleiku, Kontum, Dak To and Tan Canh.

The South Vietnamese tried to rush reinforcements to Tan Canh from the north and south, but the North Vietnamese blew up three sections of Highway 14 along a seven-mile stretch from Tan Canh southward to Fire Base Vo Binh.

CLAIMS 200 KILLED

The Saigon command claimed more than 200 North Vietnamese troops were killed in fighting Sunday on the

IRA Rebels Hold Catholic Sectors

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen openly manned sandbagged fortifications around Roman Catholic areas of Londonderry today in anticipation of a British Army attempt to oust them from the strongholds.

In continuing violence Northern Ireland gunmen wounded a policeman, a civilian and a soldier in Londonderry, another soldier in Belfast and fought a 30-minute battle with militia forces troops along the Irish Republic border.

The gunmen manned the emplacements with submachine-guns and other weapons. They stopped and questioned all motorists and pedestrians entering the districts. The emplacements bristled with barbed wire and the green, white and orange tricolor of the Irish Republic.

Spokesman for the Irish Republican Army's provisional and official wings said the emplacements were erected on grounds that a full-scale invasion by the British Army to oust the IRA from the areas was imminent.

William Whitelaw, Northern Ireland's new secretary of state, last week ruled out an outright onslaught by the army into the areas on grounds that it would cost the lives of innocent civilians.

No U.S. Family Fully Sane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing U.S. government statistics, a National Institute of Mental Health psychologist said today there is growing evidence that "almost no family" in the United States is entirely free of mental disorders.

Dr. David Rosenthal suggested that the incidence of mental disorders may figure prominently among the causes of the country's social turbulence and disorders, including crime and racial unrest.

Based on a 1967 institute survey, which Rosenthal said contains the latest figures, he concluded possibly 60 million Americans are borderline schizophrenics or exhibit other deviant mental behavior in the schizophrenic category.

"Indeed," Rosenthal said in a report to the National Academy of Sciences, "it may very well be that the so-called 'normal' person, with respect to mental health, does not represent a norm at all, but rather an ideal — relatively rare — that most of us would like to achieve."

Rosenthal said there are more than 1.75 million schizophrenic or potentially schizophrenic persons walking the streets besides at least 500,000 in hospitals in the U.S. Schizophrenia, one of the major mental illnesses, includes a tendency to withdraw from reality and often involves hallucinations and delusions.

In his report, Rosenthal said there's growing evidence that hereditary factors may play a role in causing at least some forms of mental illness.

Rosenthal said "the magnitude and gravity of the mental illness problem . . . has . . . relevance to the psychological turbulence rampant in an American society that is confused, divided, concerned about its future, and casting about for workable solutions to critical problems."

Rosenthal said other statistics from the survey indicate:

—90,000 Americans were taken to hospital in 1967 for depression and "many times more never found their way to a hospital."

—On suicide: "At least once every minute someone in the United States tried to kill himself, and once every 24 minutes the attempt was successful."

—"There are nine million people in the United States with a serious drinking problem, or about one of every 22 persons, whose annual costs to the nation include $10 million, half of all arrests, and 25,000 highway deaths. . . . An estimated 200,000 new cases develop each year."

Finally, said Rosenthal, psychoneurosis — emotional illness short of insanity — is "so prevalent in the population that it is almost impossible to estimate."

MURDER CHARGE LAID

NANAIMO — A 30-year-old man was charged with murder in provincial court today following a Saturday night shooting spree which left a 16-year-old girl dead and three other young persons injured.

Michael McCormick of Kelsey Bay was remanded without plea for preliminary hearing of the non-capital charge.

Sixteen-year-old Brenda Eileen Daniluk of Nanaimo died in hospital Sunday after being shot twice in the head early Saturday in a fracus in a Nanaimo restaurant.

She died 35 hours after a man entered the restaurant and emptied a .22-calibre pistol around the room, injuring four persons including Miss Daniluk.

Wayne Barber, 19, of Stouffville, Ont., and Rick Coulton, 24, of Nanaimo, are in fair condition in Victoria hospital. Barber suffered a head wound and Coulton was struck in the shoulder.

Kathy Sweezy, 20, of Nanaimo was treated for a slight head wound and released from hospital later Saturday.

Nanaimo RCMP said a man had been drinking in the restaurant until about half an hour before the shooting erupted. He left and returned at 2 a.m. with the pistol.

Terror on the Way In Shame on the Way Out

★ ★ ★

Dear Diary: Hippity-hop to the dentist's shop today in my customary blue funk (a '38 Blue Funk with white side-walls and a heater) and I marvel all over again at my sheer, craven cowardice, a legacy, I expect, from my army days when the Dental Corps was equipped only with mallet, chisel and plunger.

Tremendous strides have been made not only to eliminate the pain, but also to eliminate the psychological fears and I hate them all.

I hate the divan upon which you now recline. I want that old-fashioned, massive chair with the marble arm rests that I used to mould like silly-putty in my death grip. I hate the rippy-tippy, tea-for-two Muzak seeping from the walls, especially when my dentist hums along, an affront to a man whose emotions can only be expressed properly by Mussorgsky's Night On Bald Mountain.

The whole atmosphere of my dentist's inner chamber, in fact, seems cunningly designed for a seduction and I resent that too, though I couldn't tell you why. What I resent most, though, is the fact that this cheerful chap has, in fact, all but totally eliminated the pain. Going in with fear is bad enough, but coming out with shame is even worse.

Dear Diary: A pleasant call tonight in response to my notes on Tidal Pool Observing, the caller being a gentleman who has had that as his hobby for 50 full years. He advises me that by far the most fascinating study of all is the life and times of the starfish, usually found only at a minus tide.

By far the most bizarre talent of the starfish, I gather, is its ability to reconstruct or even multiply itself from virtually nothing. Quoth my correspondent: "This is something that's long been known to the commercial clam or oyster men who once foolishly hacked up the starfish and threw them back into the sea, only to learn that this instantly increased their numbers, a fact that still baffles marine scientists."

Pull an arm off a starfish, it seems, and the starfish will promptly grow one in its place, good as new. Even more remarkably, the starfish will often voluntarily part with an arm or two if it is disturbed or threatened and, under man-made stress from electrical shock, will part with all its arms and then, though a complete amputee, will regenerate itself perfectly.

So we are to have lunch — seafood, naturally — and I am to learn more of the creature's mysteries.

Dear Diary: From Santiago, Chile, today, a note from Glen Allen, son of the irreplaceable Ralph Allen, and a copy of the comprehensive tourist guide to the city that he and his wife have written, an absolute delight.

They'd a lot to work with since Santiago is far and away the most interesting, civilized capital in South America. One reason being that Chile, alone in that hemisphere, has kept to the democratic tradition and never tolerated the military goons who are quick to seize power in every other nation, more often than not with weaponry thoughtfully provided by the good old U.S. of A.

Of President Allende's troubled regime the Allens write: "Putting it very simply the political process going on in Chile is a struggle between those who have and those who have-not. Allende's vow is to make things better for the 40 per cent of Chileans who have very little indeed."

If he succeeds — and, again, the U.S. is an implacable enemy — it could be the start to bringing all of Latin America into the twentieth century. One reason it may succeed is that, unlike our own climes, every Chilean has such a sense of national involvement that the Allens describe political discussion as "the national dance".

Dear Diary: That was a revealing remark in one of the interviews with Jack Benny when, asked about the film, "The Godfather", he described it as "a great movie" and added: "There's violence, yes, but no pornography." It does seem true that the day has arrived when murder is acceptable, love-making is dirty.

With a sequel, "Son of Godfather", already in the works it takes no crystal ball to predict that we're in for the greatest blood-bath of cinematic violence in the history of the screen — by public demand.

Some of the reasons for it:

The stock of Gulf and Western Industries, Inc., the company that bank-rolled the picture, increased in worth by $75 million in the month after the film opened. Movie-goers are currently pouring a million dollars a day into the 372 theatres where it is playing. No other film has ever grossed so much in such a short time.

A ton of popcorn was sold the first week at the five New York theatres showing "The Godfather". Souvenir shops are doing a roaring business in Mafia-style fedoras. Godfather Game salesmen predict a million sets will be sold by the year's end. "The Godfather" sound track album is a hit. A million and a half more paperback copies of Mario Puzo's crummy novel are being printed, bringing the total press run to 10,054,000.

It might just be the time to bring out The Mafia Doll, with a bleeding bullet hole through the temple.

Dear Diary: A pleasant, interesting, informative hour today with Dave Barrett in the red-carpeted NDP suite of offices in the legislative buildings, but I came away deeply depressed.

If Barrett's estimate is true, if fewer than one in 10 of our young people can be described as politically aware, if the only hope is to put political studies into the public school curriculum and that no hope at all, whither — as the saying used to go — are we drifting?

So, tonight, reading William Tuohy's report from Athens on the fifth anniversary of the military take-over in Greece, the broken cradle of democracy, it being Tuohy's conclusion that there's been no more than token public resistance to an uncompromising police state because the public is more concerned with a new abundance of television sets, washing machines, beer and automobiles.

It may be no more than a hypothetical question, but can we claim to be any less vulnerable to strong man rule?

Gov't Works Program: 130 Hired, 400 Fired

Times Staff

Ottawa gave, and Ottawa hath taken away.

Department of national defence officials last Thursday announced that 130 students will be employed this summer at CFB Esquimalt.

This week, some of 400 employees at the base will receive that ominous little note with their pay cheques, informing them their services are no longer needed.

By the end of May, an armed forces official said today, the rest of the 400 will have joined the ranks of the jobless.

PROGRAM SEE-SAW

The employment see-saw is the result of the termination of one federal government program and the start of another.

The 400 are those taken on since Nov. 13 under the federal winter works program. The $20 million program allotted $2,976,600 to be spent in British Columbia.

Of this amount, $742,000 went to CFB Esquimalt, another $710,000 to DFB Comox and $818,000 to CFB Chilliwack.

The spokesman said the coming dismissals were necessary because "presumably the money allotted has been expended."

He added that "a very few" of the 400 might be kept on the payroll, but on a "term position" basis, not as permanent civil servants.

SAME JOBS

The jockeying of federal funds and the switch from adult to student employment at the base will have the students carrying out much the same duties as their winter-time predecessors.

To be employed for 12-week periods, the first of the student force is expected to report for duty next week.

Their assignments will include general clerical, administration, engineering, research, driving, food services and manual labor.

Will the 400 being reshuffled onto the labor market be able to find employment?

"Hopefully," he said, "the summer should prove a good one for jobs with the demand for summer services to be met. It is much better to be releasing staff now than in November."

One man, due to be unemployed as of May 1, reports that his search for work, so far, has been frustratingly fruitless.

Hospital Workers To Fight

By
ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Staff

The 10,500-member Hospital Employees Union in British Columbia is expected to move into the political action arena following last week's compulsory arbitration wage decision.

The union's provincial executive, meeting Friday and Saturday in Vancouver, will recommend to the convention at the end of June "that we become politically involved," said Bill Rolfe, HEU director of technical services.

He added that no decision has been made on whether the recommendations will be along partisan or non-partisan party political lines but they "will be contrary to present hospital policies, both labor relations and finance."

BINDING DECISION

The B.C. Mediation Commission, in a binding decision, awarded hospital workers a 6.25 per cent pay raise this year and again next year, with a minimum increase of $30 a month which represents an increase of 7.3 per cent and 6.8 per cent for lowest-paid categories.

The union described the award as "contemptuous of the needs of the working people."

Rolfe said there are no demonstrations planned "or illegal acts" in the wake of the commission's decision.

"The problem is the Mediation Commission Act gives the commission powers higher than the courts," he said.

"The act is not appealable, it is the ultimate authority. Any act you might take would easily be deemed to be unlawful and there would be the ultimate penalties.

'Super Board' Needed

Creation of a super regional board for the economic planning and development of Vancouver Island is advocated by Trevor Davis, a director of the Capital Regional District.

"If we are to create jobs for young people leaving school and university, we have to consider the economic development of this island," he said.

Davis, mayor of North Saanich, made the suggestion to a few directors on a parks tour Saturday and will place his proposal before the regional district board Wednesday.

He envisages a board promoting and developing the recreational and tourist industry and with jurisdiction over industrial planning on the island.

The recreational and tourist industry on the island, he believes, has a far greater potential as a wage earner than the logging and paper industry.

"There will be less and less people employed in logging as more and more sophisticated equipment is developed for the industry," he said. "There should be new approaches to the economic development of the island."

"People come here expecting to see something different only to find that we are repeating their mistakes — losing opportunities which they lost years ago," he said.

He pointed out the island is a geographic entity. The majority of its people never leave the island and those who do seldom venture beyond Vancouver.

It is as a geographic unit that it should be planned and developed, he said.

He noted the government's development policies are geared for the whole province and did not consider the specific needs of people living in a geographic region.

"As for regional districts," he said, "their functions are too limited — their role too passive."

"What I mean by passive is that they spend money for hospitals, parks sewers and the like," he added. "They have no powers to make money to promote and plan industrial development."

"What we need is a superboard actively engaged in the economic development of this island."

Q. I understand that various members of the House of Representatives in Washington believe Prime Minister Trudeau is now a member of the Communist Party. Is it true that Mr. Trudeau did in fact join the Communist Party when he was at university.— J.G.

A. No.

Q. I am anxious to know whether the Diary of Anne Frank was actually written by her. I have heard rumors that the diary was really by her father. My students are anxious to learn the answer to this issue. D.J.M.

A. Miss Frank wrote the Diary.

Q. Can you tell me the status of sweepstake winners Irish as well as various provincially operated sweeps, under the new tax legislation? W.D.H.?

A. Our resident financial analyst says that if you are lucky enough to win a sweepstake you will be unluckily taxed for having a "windfall," which is, of course, a capital gain.

CHILD ON LSD 'TRIP'

A six-year-old boy is in good condition in hospital today after what is believed to have been a week-end trip on a heavy accidental dose of LSD.

The boy, identified as Douglas Proulx, 5590 Old West Saanich Road, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital late Saturday afternoon when he became ill at home.

The boy's mother, Dolores Proulx, said Douglas had accidentally take three LSD pills which had been among capsules left at the Proulx home by visiting friends.

The hospital was unable to confirm today that the cause of the boy's illness had been an overdose of the hallucinogenic drug.

Saanich police said their investigation was continuing, but that there was no evidence to date on the substance which had caused the illness.

Mrs. Proulx said, however, that the visiting friends, who were not identified, had left eight pills behind. She said she had found and destroyed five of the capsules, but had been unaware of the other three until Saturday.

The boy had been left with babysitters Saturday while Mrs. Proulx went to buy a bridle for a horse she had just bought for her son.

The babysitters were outside when the boy came out about 4:20 p.m. acting strangely, she said. She returned home shortly before an ambulance arrived.

An ambulance attendant said he found Douglas lying on the floor "kicking and screaming."

"He'd be quiet for a minute, then he would start screaming again," the attendant said.

He did not respond to his own name or to people around him.

The boy remained conscious throughout the trip to hospital, but began vomiting before he reached the emergency ward.

About one-quarter of a capsule of the type commonly found in the Victoria area would be sufficient to send an average adult on a two-hour "trip." The boy apparently had swallowed 12 times that

Armed Convicts On Loose

RCMP detachments along Georgia Strait from Victoria to Alert Bay are on the lookout today for three men described as armed and dangerous who escaped from William Head Correctional Institute.

There have been reports of theft of gasoline and other supplies from several points along the strait.

Police said today the men are believed to be in the Campbell River-Refuge Cove area, where the last theft of gasoline was reported.

The escapees, all serving three-year terms at the prison, are Randolph Bruce Johannsen, 34, convicted of possession of stolen property; James Howard Smith, 22, possession of narcotics for the purpose of trafficking, and Lorne Anthony Lillemoen, 26, breaking, entering and assault.

Computers to Aid of Individual

Computers offer society the chance to counteract those forces which are driving it toward "homogenization and submersion of the individual," New York City's top administrator said here today.

E. S. Savas, first deputy city administrator of New York, warned, however, that to recognize this potential both public and private institutions will have to make significant changes.

"The most critical task is no longer a technical one, but one of tailoring system to people and adapting our institutions to the newly perceived needs of urban society," he said.

Savas was keynote speaker at the second annual conference of the Commonwealth Municipal and Regional Management (COMRIM), which is being attended by about 120 local government officials from all parts of Canada.

The conference, sponsored by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, is discussing the whole field of urban information systems.

Savas told delegates that while computers too often are programmed "to instill conformity rather than to accept diversity," they also have the ability to acknowledge the individual.

The computer that keeps track of an airline's seat reservations also arranges for a wheelchair to be waiting at the ramp for an invalid, and supplies a kosher meal for an Orthodox Jew.

With the advent of computers in government information, it is now easier to discover and analyze data which identify specialized problem areas, he said.

SPECIFIC REMEDIES

Citing an example of this, Savas said computers in New York aid crime deterrence because they enable police to be deployed in the right place at the right time, instead of following "ancient" staffing practices.

technology and systems analysis are useful tools for tackling urban problems, but warned that they do not offer the "policy-level panacea" claimed by some.

"In the same way our present firefighting organization can put out fires faster by recognizing the predictability of certain kinds of fires in certain areas at certain times, and therefore responding tactically in a more specialized manner."

Savas said the new sciences such as information-handling

"It is important to recognize the limitations of even those powerful tools when applying them to value-laden social systems such as cities, their citizens and their public servants," he said.

Andras Orders Probe Of Charity for Profit

A Times' story exposing professional promoters who use charity as a come-on gimmick to amass vast profits has resulted in scrutiny of the federal government.

The article, printed Feb. 19, has aroused the concern of Robert Andras, minister of consumer and corporate affairs.

In a letter to MP David Anderson (Lib—Esquimalt - Saanich), Andras said he has asked his department's director of investigation and research to investigate the matter.

As far as he is aware, there is no present or proposed legislation which would deal directly with the problem, Andras said.

"Individual instances might warrant consideration under the provisions of the Criminal Code or the misleading advertising provisions of the Combines Investigation Act," he said.

He adds, "The misleading advertising provisions of the Competition Bill, which is currently being reviewed, may also be applicable to any misrepresentations made in the course of fund raising by professionals."

Andras said, "We will, in any event, have this situation in mind when considering the final form of these provisions."
